Thousands Start Lengthy Vacation As Schools Close

Honor Rolls Distributed As Approximately 8,650 Students Begin Two Months' Holiday; Promotion Lists Given For Classes in Esquimalt, Saanich and Oak Bay High Schools

Their final examinations completed, approximately 8,650 students of Greater Victoria's public schools were enjoying the start of their long summer vacation today.

Departmental tests for high school entrance and junior matriculation drew to a close today as students in junior grades broke classes for the school year, some with rolls of honor and diplomas indicating special merit in various phases of their work.

Certain high school classes, in which students were not required to write examinations, but were promoted by recommendation, were released earlier this month, but the majority of students terminated their sessions this morning, several hundred having completed finals set bp the department.

The city contributed the largest number to the legion of young holiday makers, 5,127 emptying their desks and trudging home from educational centres for the last time until the beginning of September. From Saanich grade and high schools came 2,100, while Oak Bay released 950 students and Esquimalt approximately 475.

HONOR ROLLS PRESENTED

Entrance and junior matriculation results are not expected to be released until the last week in July, but students in other grades knew today, or were scheduled to know tomorrow whether or not they had been successful.

The complete list of honor rolls won by students of city grade schools, together with special awards in other districts and promotion lists for certain classes of Oak Bay, Esquimalt and Saanich high schools, follow:

BIG WELCOME FOR SELASSIE

Thousands in Streets of Geneva Cheer Exiled Ethiopian Emperor

Associated Press

Geneva, June 26.—A tumultuous welcome unprecedented in League of Nations history was given Emperor Haile Selassie today.

Thousands of residents of Geneva massed at the railroad station when the train carrying the Negus, together with many statesmen, arrived.

The Emperor, here to plead his cause against Italy, walked slowly from the train between lanes of cheering admirers who shouted, "Long live the Emperor!"

A large contingent of police guarded the Emperor.

On the same train came Rt. Hon. Anthony Eden, British Foreign Secretary; Agusto Garcia, Spanish Minister of State; Yvon Deblos, French Foreign Minister, and other delegates to the League Council session.

BALDWIN MAY RETIRE SOON

Canadian Press

Cambridge, Eng., June 26.—Prime Minister Baldwin in a speech at Leys School, Cambridge, today indicated he would like soon to retire from public life.

"I shall not be here much longer," he told the students.

He said the reason he had remained in office was because the post-war generation, "men of forty and forty-five who now ought to be coming forward to take charge of everything in this country, are not here."

He added: "Therefore we have to do rather more than our share. Many of us would be glad to ease off and hand over."

U.S. Democratic Delegates at Philadelphia Display Great Enthusiasm As Mover and Numerous Seconders Speak; Acclamation Declaration This Evening

Associated Press

Philadelphia, June 26.—In flourishing phrases of praise, the name of President Roosevelt was placed before a cheering Democratic convention today to run for re-election on a platform advocating constitutional amendment unless national problems can be handled otherwise.

His political tutor in youth, Ex-Judge John E. Mack of New York, started the demonstration again by acclaiming the New Deal founder as a champion of the masses against "classes of privilege."

Since fifty-five seconding speeches were next in order, the actual nomination—planned to be the first by acclamation since Woodrow Wilson's renomination in 1916—was not expected until late tonight, with the renomination of John N. Garner for Vice-president set for tomorrow.

Long before Mack could reach his climax, the delegates were bustling to go on another of those shouting, stomping processions through the

Canadian Press From Havas

Paris, June 26.—Continuing strikes and growing violence despite the efforts of the government and the appeals of the unions and left wing political parties were visibly worrying the leaders of the Peoples Front government today.

While the cabinet rushed through its approval of bills nationalizing the war industries and restoring pay cuts to civil servants, the merger of the Croix de Feu and other Fascist or Nationalist organizations into a united party named the "French Social Party" introduced a new element into the situation.

MARSEILLES FIGHT

Roger Salengro, Minister of the Interior, absolved the Communist Party of all responsibility for the bloody battle in the streets of Marseilles last week between striking workers and others.

M. Salengro told the Chamber of Deputies there were now 165,000 workers on strike in the country, whereas at the height of the movement 1,150,000 workers were involved

REFORM MOVE FOR LEAGUE

At Council Session at Geneva Chile Proposes Early Discussion

Canadian Press

Geneva, June 26.—Chile moved for discussion of reform of the League of Nations at the Council session here late today.

Manuel Rivas Vicuna, Chilean representative at Geneva, asked the subject be placed on the agenda either for the present session of the Council or for the League Assembly next Tuesday, or at the latest for the Assembly's September session.

The Council was called into private session by its president, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

ITALY NOT REPRESENTED

Mr. Eden received a letter from Count Galeazzo Ciano, Italian Foreign Minister, saying Italy was unable to attend the present meeting.

The Italian letter expressed the hope, however, the way would be cleared for Italian participation in the next session.

Emperor Haile Selassie remained at his quarters, but an Ethiopian delegate was present.

Industrial Payrolls Approaching Pre-depression Levels in Province, Labor Department Finds; Lumbering Leads Business to Higher Levels

A steady rise in payrolls and gains in the production of primary industries has marked the progress of British Columbia in the first half of 1936, provincial sources indicated today.

The increase in payrolls drew comment from Hon. George S. Pearson, Minister of Labor, who said:

"There is a new realization among employers of the value of maintaining wages and salaries at higher levels.

"We have found that in several cases well above the minimum scale is being paid. In some instances wages above the 1929 standard are being paid.

"The other day one of the big logging concerns reported that the average wage of its 500 employees in May was $144. This was an increase of $11 in the April average. In another operation, which covers 1,485 men in several undertakings the average was $115."

Industrial payrolls in the province last year were estimated at $128,000,000 and with the gains shown so far ma, reach well over $150,000,000 this year.

This is a recovery from the low of $99,000,000 in 1933.

The all-time peak was $192,000,000 in 1929.

Government Seal On Mystery Bond Gift From B.C.

R. W. Ford at Mize, Mississippi, U.S.A., Has Package of British Government Bonds Worth $142,625, But He Does Not Know Who in B.C. Mailed It

Mize, Miss., June 26.—R. W. Ford, forty-three-year-old druggist who received a registered package containing British government bonds amounting to $142,625 Wednesday, went calmly about his business today while others sought to solve the mystery surrounding his gift.

The bonds arrived on the only train into this village of 429 persons, on a branch line of the Illinois General.

The package was mailed from British Columbia. The bonds range from $25 to $30,000. The envelope was closed with the official seal of the Canadian Government.

Ford's wife declared: "If he has any friends in British Columbia, he doesn't know who they are—they must have moved there recently."

Mr. Ford, a graduate of the University of Mississippi, believes there must be a mistake about the strange bonds. He has lived near Mize all his life. His home is near Taylorsville, about six miles from Mize.

The bonds were marked "Army and Navy."

Court Rejects Plea of Three Indian Brothers And Two Bank Bandits

Equal Division on Appeal Bench on Right of Canford Slayers for New Trial Causes Application for New Trial to Fail; Dunbar and Russell to Hang for Vancouver Hold-up Killing

Appeals of the three George brothers, Indians convicted of the murder of Provincial Police Constable F. H. Gisbourne at Canford Indian Reserve on May 23, 1934, failed on an equal division in the Appeal Court here today.

Earl Dunbar and Charles Russell, sentenced to hang following the death of a teller in a Vancouver bank robbery in January, also lost their appeals against the death penalty.

In the case of the Indian brothers, Chief Justice Macdonald moved to set aside conviction. Mr. Justice Martin brought in a judgment for a new trial on the grounds of misdirection and non-direction amounting to misdirection on the part of the trial judge.

Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald and Mr. Justice McQuarrie moved for dismissal of the appeal, which was thrown out on the equal division.

DUNBAR-RUSSELL APPEAL LOST

Mr. Justice Martin stood alone for a new trial in the Dunbar and Russell appeals, which were dismissed by the judgments of the chief justice, Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald and Mr. Justice McQuarrie.

Two civil actions were also dismissed.

The Chief Justice stated he would move for the setting aside of the conviction in the George brothers case, saying he would submit reasons later.

Mr. Justice Martin noted the case for the Crown against the George brothers varied from that of the first trial. The change was accountable through the difference in evidence by the witnesses, most important of which was the alteration in testimony given by the main witness for the Crown, he said.

He was of the opinion, Mr. Justice Martin said, that the first and principal ground for the appeal had been substantiated—that there had been misdirection to such an extent that the jury was misled thereby. He felt there should be a new trial, he said.

In the Dunbar-Russell appeal, Chief Justice Macdonald ruled both guilty and stated the appeal should be dismissed.

Mr. Justice Martin supported a new trial on the grounds there had been misdirection and non-direction on the part of the trial judge.

Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald and Mr. Justice McQuarrie agreed with the Chief Justice for dismissal of the appeal.

Members of Victoria and Vancouver legal professions attended the session of the court in numbers to hear the judgment which leaves the Indians the carrying of the appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada.

SAYS JAPAN'S FLAG SACRED

Officer Explains Rough Treatment of Foreigners By Japanese Soldiers in Peiping

Associated Press

Peiping, June 26. — Foreigners in Peiping must understand the imperial Japanese flag is sacred, Major Takeo Imai, assistant military attache, declared today.

The Japanese officer said a reply to the United States ambassador's protest against rude treatment of United States citizens during a military demonstration Tuesday would be made in a few days.

The flag has special spiritual significance to the Japanese soldiers and must be shown the greatest respect, he asserted.

"Where it goes, they go desperately," he said, adding he personally did not believe soldiers had threatened passers-by with bayonets.

Besides the representations made by Ambassador Nelson Johnson on two cases involving United States citizens, officials of the French embassy yesterday called Japanese attention to reports that the wife and child of a French officer had been unceremoniously pushed about.

Other foreigners were said to have been treated roughly by the Japanese soldiers.

Appendicitis, Diet Subjects of Papers

Need For Early Diagnosis of Appendicitis; High Death Rate Challenge to Medicine

The need for early diagnosis of acute appendicitis was stressed by Dr. Gordon Fahrni, Winnipeg, at the last session of the convention this morning. It was in the early stages that operation offered the lowest mortality rate, he said.

However, when a patient showed definite evidence of localization of the inflammatory process, conservative treatment offered more than immediate operation.

In the United States and Canada 25,000 deaths were reported annually from acute appendicitis, equivalent to twenty per 100,000 of population. The records showed that the death rate from this source on the North American continent had increased about 50 per cent in the last twenty years, and that appendicitis now ranked second only to cancer as a killing surgical ailment.

Case mortality in hospitals was rarely below 4 per cent, and sometimes above 12 per cent.

"This is a disease which we feel should be treated under optimum conditions with a mortality of not more than 1 per cent," said Dr. Fahrni.

"These statistics constitute a challenge to the medical profession of this country, especially when we are told that the mortality from acute appendicitis is twice as high in the United States as in England, and there is no reason to consider Canada's lower than that of our American neighbor."

Dr. Fahrni urged that the general public be better informed of the symptoms of acute appendicitis. Sometimes the fact that abdominal pain was mild was no indication that the disease might not change rapidly to a serious character.

"The laity should be taught to call a physician for any abdominal pain, particularly if it continues for more than a few hours," said Dr. Fahrni. He added that the use of purgatives was to be deprecated in cases of abdominal pain, as statistics showed a far higher proportion of appendicitis deaths when they had been administered.

Doctor Lists What Children Should Eat; Minerals Lost in Cooking Water

What every child should eat daily to preserve the body's supply of minerals and vitamins was listed by Dr. F. F. Tisdall, Toronto, speaking on "A Practical Consideration of the Mineral and Vitamin Requirements of Man" at the closing session of the Canadian Medical Association convention at the Empress Hotel this morning.

Dr. Tisdall specified from twenty-five to thirty ounces of milk, including milk used in cooking, which should be about one-third of the total; eggs and meat in reasonable quantities; at least two vegetables, besides potatoes, and some fruit or raw vegetable.

If the human body was getting enough minerals and vitamins, more would do no good. The thing to do was to see that it received the optimum amount for health, he said.

The water used in cooking carried off enormous amounts of valuable vitamins and minerals, according to Dr. Tisdall.

Vitamin B1 was water soluble. It was present in vegetables, but not in very large quantities, and what there was was often lost in the cooking water. One of the chief natural sources of this vitamin was wheat germ, but the germ was eliminated in the milling of wheat for flour.

Cod liver oil was the chief source of vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin. In the Canadian climate, where people were not exposed to sunlight during the whole year, it was necessary to supply this vitamin from some other source. Egg yolks were the next most plentiful source after fish oils. Fourteen yolks gave the same amount as one teaspoonful of cod liver oil.

Vitamin D was not present in appreciable quantities in vegetables. It would take 1,560 servings of beets to give the same quantity as a teaspoon of cod liver oil, and a man could eat lettuce salad for eleven years to obtain the same amount.

Cooking water was also responsible for great losses of calcium and iron and lesser quantities of other valuable minerals.

Baumgold appeared at a police station shortly after the bodyguard and the taxicab had reported the kidnapping.

Nanking Forces Reported to Be Attacking Border Defences of Kwangtung Province

Associated Press

Hongkong, June 27.—The official Kwangtung news agency announced early today the forces of the Nanking (central) government in southern Kiangsi province had begun an attack on Kwangtung frontier defences.

Anti-Communist forces have been ordered southward from Szechuen and Kweichow, the report stated.

A semi-official report from Canton said 7,000 Huanese soldiers, attached to the Nanking government, had mutinied and declared themselves an anti-Japanese "salvation" army.

Spokesmen of the Southwest (Canton) government made official denial yesterday of reports the Nanking (central) government and Kwangsi (southwest provincial troops) had been fighting in southern Hunan province. They insisted, moreover, all southwest troops had been withdrawn from Hunan province June 15.

The spokesmen disclaimed any Canton intention of fighting the Japanese alone and explained they intended to arouse the whole country, knowing all northern military leaders were eager to resist Japan.

Tokio, June 26 (Associated Press).—Domei (Japanese) News Agency reports from Tientsin tonight said the Japanese destroyer Kiku, due at the Tientsin port of Tangku early Saturday, would stay there until the Chinese afford Japan "satisfaction" in the smuggling crisis.

PRODUCTION AND PAYROLL RECORD

LUMBERING LEADS

With fresh markets opening up in South Africa and the United States, the lumbering industry, which has the largest single payroll, is setting a hot pace for the other basic industries and production values this year will probably reach the $70,000,000 mark.

The 1935 output was estimated at $57,000,000 and the forest output so far is running 18 per cent. ahead this year with prices just as good, if not better.

The peak production, by value, in the forest industries was $93,787,000 in 1928.

Mining, the second in importance in dollars and cents, is flourishing nicely and departmental officials are now preparing a report showing how the first half operations compare with last year's production of $48,821,000.

GOLD PRODUCTION UP

Gold is leading the parade, with a substantially larger output.

Despite estimates of a smaller apple crop in the Okanagan, the Department of Agriculture expects a 10 or 15 per cent. gain in agricultural production value this year, which means more money for the farmers.

Farm, yield and range products in 1935 were valued at $42,419,992 and may reach $47,000,000 this year, although this is difficult to approximate until harvesting time.

In 1929 agriculture was worth $62,632,890.

Fisheries will do well to hold to the 1935 level of $15,786,000.

Returns from halibut, the only major fishery at work so far, have been ahead of last year. The total catch of halibut is limited by quota, but prices have held up well, officials said.

With off-year seasons due on some of the big salmon fisheries, the sockeye pack this year will not reach the huge total of last year.

$180,000,000 FROM FOUR INDUSTRIES

On the basis of various departmental predictions, it is thus estimated the value of primary production this year may run to $180,000,000 for a 10 per cent. gain over 1935.

The effect of this improvement is being definitely felt in the provincial relief department, which reported a drop of 7,000 in the number drawing relief as between May of this year and last year.

Relief authorities expect the list this summer will drop to the lowest point since 1931.

Out of 88,000 persons now existing on government relief, more than 50,000 are classed as dependents. Of the remainder a large number are aged or incapacitated, so it is estimated that there are roughly 25,000 able-bodied persons still needing jobs

Truck Robbed; Man Missing

Associated Press

Pawtucket, R.I., June 26.—The driver of an armored payroll truck containing $16,000 disappeared today from Main Street here and although the truck was found abandoned nearby nearly an hour later, the operator was missing. Police reported $1,200 was gone.

Bank guards who had gone into the Rhode Island Hospital Trust Company branch first reported the disappearance of the truck and driver. One of the guards, Morton Swift, estimated the truck had disappeared twenty-five to thirty-five minutes before its loss was known.

He explained he and the other guard, employees of a detective agency, had gone into the bank to get payrolls for delivery. When they came out, he added, the truck was gone.

U.S. RAIL LAW THROWN OUT

Pension Plan and Tax Measure Ruled Unconstitutional By Court

Associated Press

Washington, June 26. — Justice Jennings Bailey of the District of Columbia Supreme Court today declared the United States government's 1935 railroad retirement plan was unconstitutional.

He ruled that both the rail pension law and its companion tax measure were "inseparable parts" of a single scheme, unconstitutional under prior rulings of the Supreme Court.

The ruling was made in a suit filed by Class 1 railroads and other railway enterprises to prevent the legislation from becoming effective July 1.

LEVIES OPPOSED

This injunction suit was brought by 131 first-class carriers and 289 lesser enterprises. They attacked both the retirement act and its companion revenue measure, which sought to lay a 3½ per cent tax on rail wages and an equal levy on company payrolls.

Both of these statutes were enacted last year after the Supreme Court had invalidated the 1934 retirement law, which included both tax and pension provisions.

The 1935 retirement act was designed to set up a permanent pension system for railway workers over sixty-five years old. First annuity payments under it were scheduled to be made July 1.

Ottawa, June 26. — The honor of being the first band ever to play under the arch of the Peace Tower of the Parliament Buildings fell to the Vancouver Kitsilano Boys' Band, which gave a concert there today.

The original location for the performance was in the hot noonday sun, but Director Arthur W. Delamont said it would be too much for the forty-nine musicians, so they were moved under the arch, where it was shady.

The band left later today for Montreal, from where it will sail tomorrow for England and Ireland to give a series of concerts in the leading cities and take part in a world competition at the Crystal Palace, London.

BEDOUIN CHIEFS PROPOSING MARCH ON JERUSALEM

Sheiks of Desert in Transjordania Plead With Emir to Let 100,000 Fighters Aid Arabs Against British in Palestine

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Association Press Staff Writer

Amman, Transjordania, June 26.—Leaders of 100,000 Bedouin warriors proposed a march on Jerusalem today to assist their Arab brothers in the Holy Land.

They laid their demands before Emir Abdullah of Transjordania after a meeting of 200 sheiks and leaders of desert tribes.

"We must go to the aid of the Arabs in Palestine," a big sun-blackened chief declared. "We are all one people. These are our lands.

"Freedom for Transjordania is useless without freedom for Palestine. Talks and strikes have won nothing."

(The Jerusalem correspondent of the London News-Chronicle reported the Bedouin chieftains had called the meeting to inform Sir Arthur Wauchope, British High Commissioner for Palestine, that "unless Arab demands in Palestine are met within ten days, we will rise in revolt." The newspaper's correspondent quoted the Emir of Transjordania as saying, "I have been holding my people from joining the disturbances for the past two months, but it is fast becoming more and more difficult.")

WARNING GIVEN

Another shiek here, who talked freely, said:

"We will warn the Emir the Arabs of Palestine must be freed from Jewish dominance within ten days or we will go and free them ourselves."

A number of Bedouins were reported to have already crossed the Jordan, guarded on rare intervals by a frontier patrol of 1,200 soldiers.

Disorders in Palestine during the last two months have claimed the lives of scores of Arabs and Jews. Hundreds of persons have been injured in disturbances and a large amount of property damaged. The riots brought strong reinforcements of British troops. Strikes have been called. Jews have been segregated in all-Jewish communities to prevent clashes between the two peoples.

The British government holding the League of Nations mandate, pledges itself to "safeguard the rights of all inhabitants of Palestine, irrespective of race or religion," Colonial Secretary Ormsby-Gore declared in the House of Commons yesterday.

TWO MEN KILLED

Canadian Press

Jerusalem, June 26. — Arabs wrecked a train on the Jerusalem-Haifa-Lydda railroad line today, killing the engineer and a soldier.

A general fight between Arab attackers and the military guard on the train immediately developed around the wreckage.

First reports from the scene said it was believed the Arabs had suffered heavy casualties.

READY FOR ACTION

Associated Press

London, June 26.—Great Britain has been expecting trouble in Transjordania and is fully prepared to meet it, officials at the Colonial Office declared to-day.

Seeds of possible trouble have been observed both in the Arab disorders in Palestine and in the failure of crops in Transjordania.

Authorities said they expected any possible trouble to be confined to Transjordania. They doubted the Bedouins would go to the aid of the Palestine Arabs.

Informed observers pointed to tension existing between Palestinian and Transjordania Arabs and to the difficulties which a crossing of the frontier would involve.

ROOSEVELT PUT IN NOMINATION FOR PRESIDENCY

aisles. New banners were produced, announcing "Albany 100 Per Cent" for Roosevelt; "North Carolina Wants Roosevelt—Garner and the New Deal" and other sentiments.

GOVERNOR SPEAKS

Governor Bibb Graves of Alabama led off the long list of seconders which read like a miniature who's who of the party.

Picturing the President as an inspired leader in a war of "humanity" against "greed," Mack pointed his address toward the climatic statement:

"With our decks cleared for battle, with justice and right and progress with us, we are ready for more action under the inspired leadership of that great American whose name I give you as our candidate for President, no longer a citizen of merely one state but a son of all the forty-eight states, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

"CRIES OF ANGER"

Mack, a grey-haired man who also was the Roosevelt nominator in 1932, dealt briefly with campaign issues. He asserted "the cries of anger and the vicious attacks" against the New Deal emanate from "those who themselves brought about the great depression . . .

"From the great financial interests whose high-powered salesmen induced foreign countries unnecessarily to plunge themselves into debt and unload their bonds on trusting American investors—bonds, many of which are now in default and practically worthless.

"From the same great financial interests that pyramided company upon company for the purpose of rooking the investing public by watered stock and cheating the consuming public by inflated rates."

QUESTION TO BE DECIDED

"The issue is now," he asserted, "whether the people are going to retain that control of the processes of government or whether they are going to turn them back to this same small group whose destructive abuse of their former power was responsible for all our troubles."

Vancouver, June 26 (Canadian Press).—Police today were dragging Burrard Inlet off La Bointe pier for the body of Lem Young, Chinese member of the crew of the Ss. Bencleuch. Ship's officers told police Lem disappeared from the vessel yesterday and is believed to have been drowned.

CONSTITUTION MAY BE ALTERED

United States Democrats Adopt Platform Calling For Solution of National Problems Even If Amendment Must Be Voted

Associated Press

Philadelphia, June 26.—A potentially explosive issue was tossed into the United States presidential campaign today by a Democratic platform calling for federal authority to meet "national problems" even if a constitutional amendment should be required.

The platform, adopted by the National Convention last night without debate, draws a clear issue with the "states rights" programme enunciated by the Republican National Convention at Cleveland. The balance of the Democratic platform is chiefly praise for New Deal policies and a pledge to continue them

CHALLENGE GIVEN

While the Democratic platform says interstate activities call for both state and federal treatment, thus protecting to some extent the party's traditional state rights position, it specifically challenges the Republican position on state rights.

"Transactions and activities which inevitably overflow state boundaries call for both state and federal treatment," the Democratic platform declares.

The platform adds the party, if re-elected, would seek to meet these problems through legislation "within the constitution," but if they could not be effectively solved that way a "clarifying amendment" would be sought.

Such an amendment, the platform says, would give the states and the federal government power "adequately to regulate commerce, protect public health and safety and safeguard economic security."

STABLE MONEY

The platform advocates stabilized money to prevent former wide fluctuations in value; reduction in government expenses and balancing of the budget "at the earliest possible moment"; "true neutrality" in foreign policy and efforts towards peace and removal of profits of war; lowering of tariff barriers by mutual agreement but protection for farmers and manufacturers from unfair foreign competition.

It also promises for farmers the continuation of the soil erosion and domestic allotment programme with benefit payments, government co-operation in refinancing farm indebtedness and adjustment to balance production with demand.

OLD RULE DROPPED

In addition to the New Deal platform, the forces of Roosevelt and Garner, riding in firm control of the convention, yesterday evening abrogated the ancient rule which required a two-thirds majority of the convention for the presidential and vice-presidential nominations.

WIDE LEEWAY

Plainly, the Democratic platform of 1936 is intended to provide a framework within which the New Deal leadership could, if re-elected, have considerable leeway in the attainment of the wide objectives stated. Throughout it was written in the most general of terms.

Hon. Ian Mackenzie Tells Vancouver Audience King Government Creating Record By Fulfilling Promises So Rapidly

Vancouver, June 26.—"No government in the history of Canada has so fine a record for so short a time in carrying out an election platform," Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Minister of National Defence, said at a Laurier Club luncheon here today. "Every plank that could be dealt with, legally, has been acted upon."

He added that "we must march to higher and better achievements, facing problems still unsolved."

The minister's address was a review of the fourteen major planks of the Liberal platform in the last election and what the government has done about them.

Of plank No. 1, unemployment, he explained the task set the newly-created National Employment Commission. He cited the government's provision in supplementary estimates of $60,000,000 to provide work and general revival of industry brought about by tariff policy.

TRADE EXTENSION

Of plank No. 2, the tariff, the minister said all parts of Canada benefited by the government's quick action, particularly in respect of its agreements with United States and Japan.

Action on the "liberation of internal trade" awaited decision of the courts.

Development of primary industries was being carried out by widening export markets. Of particular interest to B.C. was the $500,000 voted to help fishermen and the benefit to lumbering under the trade pact with the United States. Mining got stability of taxation and $1,500,000 to provide development of roads.

Of the control of credit plank, the minister said action taken regarding the Bank of Canada was not exactly what he had advocated, but the measure to acquire 51 per cent of the bank's stock gave the government just as complete responsibility and authority as total ownership.

Control of investments, another plank, should be brought about by establishment of an investment control board and action awaited decisions of the court.

C.N.R. CONTOL

Of the Canadian National Railways the minister said the government had provided that the people of Canada should have an active part in management of their own property.

"Democratization of industry," continued the speaker, was a long range policy which could not be brought about by a single act of Parliament, and one of the steps was appointment of the Employment Commission.

There was no "blank cheque" authority taken by the government this year. That was the action taken to restore responsible government. Restoration of personal liberty—action: repeal of Section 98.

TURTLES EAT DUCKLINGS

Tinsonburg, Ont., June 26 (Canadian).—Snapping turtles are proving a menace to the wild fowl under guardianship of the Lake Lisgar Improvement Club. In three weeks twenty mallard ducklings have disappeared and the snappers are blamed. Last year two hunters shot several turtles and the duck disappearances stopped.

SCRIP LIKE DOLLAR BILL

Edmonton, June 26.—Proposed Alberta prosperity certificates will be about the same size and color as a new small Canadian $1 bill, Premier Aberhart said here when he announced design of the bonds had been decided.

Arrangements have been made for printing the certificates and printers are working on them now, the Premier added. They will be about six inches long and 2¾ inches wide. Details to make them as counterfeit-proof as possible have been completed.

"That is about as near as we can get them ready," Mr. Aberhart stated when asked if the bonds would be issued about the end of July.

Urges Influx Of British Settlers

B. O. Schonegeval of London Advocates Movement to Canada

Canadian Press

Toronto, June 26.—B. O. Schonegeval, J.P., London, Eng., on tour to encourage settlement of English colonists in less crowded parts of the empire, says "people in England have the idea Canada has shut its doors to the good old Britisher."

Addressing a Toronto service club yesterday, he said there were £30,000,000 idle in Britain, left over from a colonization scheme in which the Dominions were to pay half the expense. This was wrong, he said, declaring "the Motherland should have paid entirely and that £30,000,000 should be used on that basis."

"The time is fast approaching when the Dominions must decide either to get in or get out of the empire," he said. "England has the money, the people and the goodwill. You have the space. You need only demonstrate your goodwill for us to pool our assets and build within the empire."

Sunday Radio Politics Scored

Canadian Press

Calgary, June 26. — Resolutions favoring abolition of political propaganda on Sundays and seeking the control of radio by a national commission were passed yesterday evening at the concluding session of the Baptist Union of western Canada.

With the object of calling an all-Canadian Baptist conference, the meeting favored the calling of a meeting of the representatives of the three Baptist groups in Canada at the time of the foreign mission board meeting in October. Opposition was expressed to retrenchment in the Indian and Bolivian foreign mission fields.

Dr. W. G. Carpenter of Calgary was re-elected president for his fourth term, and Rev. James Strachan of Saskatoon first vice-president. Other officers include: Rev. George Reynolds, Victoria, third vice-president, and Rev. J. P. Gordon, Vancouver, recording secretary.

DR. D. E. ROBERTSON TESTIFIES ON MINE

Canadian Press

Halifax, June 26.—The "suitcase" he had taken down the Moose River gold mine was a dispatch case containing six flashlight bulbs for taking photographs underground, Dr. D. E. Robertson, Toronto, told the Nova Scotia government's commission investigating the mine's collapse, in his evidence read yesterday.

The testimony had been taken in Toronto by a special commissioner in that city, Donald G. Ross. Dr. Robertson was entombed in the mine ten days before he was rescued.

He had no idea the mine was unsafe, Dr. Robertson said, until Alfred Scadding, mine timekeeper who accompanied him and Herman Magill, suggested there was a "lot of cracking" in the mine. The shaft had collapsed in its upper part, above the 141-foot level, the surgeon testified.

Bridge Collapses As King Nears It

The King and his party, in eleven motor cars, are making a tour of Iceland.

It was believed the bridge had been weakened by flood waters.

POLES RANSACK JEWISH STORES

Australia Means To Defend Trade

Premier Lyons Gives Firm Answer to Japan's Move in Restricting Imports From Commonwealth

Canadian Press

Canberra, June 26.—Japan's action in restricting imports of Australian goods has evoked a firm reply from Prime Minister James Lyons, who yesterday evening defended the Commonwealth Government's policy of extending empire preferences.

The Prime Minister, in a speech broadcast throughout the Commonwealth, asserted Japan had "bluntly demanded that Australia jettison her whole policy of empire preference" and had threatened to retaliate if Australia restricted her imports of foreign (principally Japanese) textiles.

Dr. Lyons termed the retaliatory Japanese restrictions "a deliberate attempt to coerce the Commonwealth's trade policy."

(In Tokio the government put into effect yesterday a licensing system for Australian wheat and wool and raised tariffs by 50 per cent on some other products from this dominion.)

NOT ABANDONING POLICY

"The government will not depart from its policy, which has been adopted for the protection of Australian industry and for fostering Anglo-Australian trade," the Prime Minister declared. He added the situation would be considered carefully and that no hasty countermeasures would be taken against Japan.

The Prime Minister charged that responsibility for the present situation rested with Japanese manufacturers. He said "their price-cutting aims at a monopoly of the textile market in Australia."

"FAIR TREATMENT"

Japanese Consul-General Kuramatsu Murai at Sydney issued a statement in connection with the trade dispute. It was that Japan did not want to dictate Australian policy and that she was prepared to rescind the retaliatory measures as soon as "fair treatment" was given Japan.

PRESS OPINIONS

Most Australian newspapers characterized the Japanese restrictions as "unwarranted." Even The Sydney Herald, which hitherto urged sympathy with the Japanese case, supports Dr. Lyons's assertion that the Japanese "demands" constitute a challenge which Australia cannot ignore.

Semi-official Japanese quarters have declared that unless new restrictions on Japanese textile imports are rescinded, Japan will buy wool from South Africa and develop the use of cotton and artificial wool fibres to replace Commonwealth imports.

When the new Australian tariff policy was announced May 22 at Canberra, Sir Henry Gullett, Assistant Minister of Trade, said it was designed to divert imports to the Commonwealth valued at more than £2,000,000 from "indifferent" customers of Australian goods to British and other customers.

THREE M.P.'S AT YOUTH CONGRESS

They are Rev. T. C. Douglas, Weyburn, Sask.; Paul J. Martin, Essex East, Ont., and Denton Massey of Toronto. The World Youth Congress will continue until September 7, with four commissions or committees sharing its work.

Breeds Cancer Out of Mice

Dr. Maud Slye Tells of Control of Disease in Animals By Selective Mating

Associated Press

Chicago, June 26.—Dr. Maud Slye, the woman who bred 150,000 mice to learn how cancer was inherited, said today she had developed control of the disease in the animals to the point where she could produce or prevent any kind of cancer at will.

By following the Mendelian law of heredity, the famed pioneer in cancer genetics declared she had:

Bred a strain of mice which were absolutely free of all cancer for twenty years.

Mated mice which were susceptible to a number of types of tumors and produced descendants susceptible to only one kind of cancer which she had chosen in advance.

She said the same thing could be done with human beings by selective mating.

She announced her new findings—which she said would be supported by detailed data to be published soon—in answer to an attack on her theory of how susceptibility to cancer is inherited.

DR. LITTLE'S THEORY

Chicago, June 26.—A new theory of how susceptibility to cancer is inherited was advanced yesterday by an authority on genetics, Dr. C. C. Little of Bar Harbor, Maine.

The theory holds that cancer of the breast behaves differently from all other forms of the disease, transmiting itself from generation to generation principally through mothers.

Such behavior would violate the Mendelian law of heredity, which appears to govern all the characteristics man inherits from his ancestors.

The law operates through distribution of the genes — unseen biologic somethings found in the chromosomes, the cells where life begins — and decides such things as color of hair and eyes, height, physical constitution and susceptibility to disease.

Under this law, fathers and mothers have equal power to transmit susceptibility to disease.

ARTICLE IN JOURNAL

Genetecist Little, writing in The Journal of the American Medical Association, said the law holds true in all types of cancer, except breast cancer.

In the latter type of the malignancy, however, he said he had performed experiments with mice, showing that when a female of "high susceptibility" to cancer was mated with a "low susceptibility" male, 39 per cent of their children and grandchildren inherited the weakness.

When a "low susceptibility" female was mated with a "high susceptibility" male, the doctor added, the percentage in the next two generations fell to 6 per cent.

TRAINING FOR NEW CITIZENS

Suggested Federal Government Give Manuals to All Persons Naturalized

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 26.—A proposal that the federal government print a manual which would be placed in the possession of all new citizens of Canada to impress on them the importance of their citizenship rights was contained in a report submitted to the Association of Canadian Clubs here yesterday by its president, Mr. Justice A. K. Dysart of Winnipeg.

Mr. Justice Dysart, who is chairman of a special committee on naturalization, also advocated some formal ceremony for the presentation of naturalization certificates. In Winnipeg these occasions were made an impressive ceremony, he said.

The executive seeks approval of the appointment of Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the National Research Council, Ottawa, as honorary director of the association. Dr. Tory has agreed to accept the position with the understanding he is to receive no salary.

SIX CANADIANS IN COLLISION

Three Seriously Injured in Auto Accident Near Burlington, Washington

Associated Press

Bellingham, Wash., June 26.—Six Canadians were in a hospital here today, three of them painfully if not seriously injured, following a collision between the automobile in which they were riding and a truck on the Pacific Highway near Burlington in Skagit County yesterday afternoon. All the injured are residents of Vegreville, Alberta.

They are:

E. L. Pretgifler, forty, severe head injury.

John Ginger, thirty-eight, fractured left arm and other injuries.

Mrs. John Ginger, numerous cuts about the head, face and arms.

Adam Ginger, sixty, scalp wound.

Mrs. Adam Ginger, cuts about the face and legs.

George F. Smotz, forty, shoulder and back injuries.

The accident was said to have occurred when Pretgifler attempted to pass a car and crashed head-on into the truck driven by Ivan Stump, Bellingham, driver for the Pacific Coast Paper Mills.

Stump was not injured.

Professor Finlayson is now a teacher in civil engineering at the University of Manitoba, Winnipeg.

The appointment was made necessary by the death last summer of Dean R. W. Brock, killed in an airplane accident at Alta Lake, sixty miles from here.

The board also appointed Dr. Hector John MacLeod of Edmonton as professor and head of the Department of Mechancial and Electrical Engineering, a position left vacant by the resignation some weeks ago of Dr. Herbert Vickers.

MOVIE BAN IS CALLED ERROR

Toronto Clergy Say Ontario Board Wrong in Banning "Green Pastures"

Canadian Press

Toronto, June 26.—Clergy, social service workers and editors saw the motion picture version of Marc Connelly's play, "The Green Pastures," at a private screening yesterday. Consensus was the Ontario Board of Censors was wrong in banning the picture as sacrilegious.

Representative views:

B. K. Sandwell, editor of the Toronto Saturday night: "They can't suppress a beautiful picture like that."

Rev. R. J. Irwin, pastor of Donlands United Church: "I saw nothing objectionable in it, and I certainly would not favor banning it."

Dr. C. E. Silcox, secretary of the Social Service Council of Canada: "There is nothing in the least sacrilegious about it. In the film the Deity appears the way God would be thought by very reverent and devoted persons of a certain type."

Rev. Father M. J. McGrath, secretary of the Legion of Decency: "So far as the Legion of Decency is concerned, there will be no objection if the picture is released."

Distributors of the picture have appealed the board's decision, and the appeal board will review the film shortly.

Premier Hepburn, member of the board, said he had seen the picture and considered it "an insult to the church-going people of the province."

Sir Robert Borden

EIGHTY-TWO YEARS AGO TODAY, in the small town of Grand Pre in Nova Scotia, Robert Laird Borden first saw the light of day. Little did he think—of course he had not begun to think—that he was destined to be one of Canada's most distinguished citizens and an imposing figure in world affairs.

Today, however, the boy of Grand Pre is known as the Right Honorable Sir Robert Laird Borden, P.C., G.C.M.G., K.C., D.C.L., LL.D., and he can add to these imposing initials others of an equally significant nature. For example, he was Prime Minister of Canada during the most trying time of her career as a thriving member of the community now known as the Britannic Commonwealth of Nations, now President of Barclays Bank of Canada—an Old Country financial institution with widespread economic influence—President of the Crown Life Insurance Company, another of Canada's bulwarks of security for her citizens, and a devotee of all that makes for sound Canadian citizenship.

This newspaper on many occasions refused to agree with Sir Robert Borden's political tenets. But it always recognized his sterling Canadianism. And that, after all, is the most that counts with the people of this country.

We quote from a contemporary which tells us that Sir Robert Borden is of the opinion that the House of Commons at Ottawa has "never seemed the same to me after Sir Wilfrid Laurier died." Conservative though he was—perhaps he still is—Sir Robert's political beliefs have been mellowed; for how could he say this if they had not:

> Dunning is a splendid fellow, the highest type of public man, who enjoys the confidence of his countrymen. And well may they be glad that he has charge of a department of such tremendous responsibility in these critical days.

A dispatch from Ottawa goes on: "Young men of promise," was the old Conservative leader's description of Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Labor; Hon. Clarence D. Howe, Minister of Transport; Hon. Charles G. Power, Minister of Pensions, and Hon. James J. Ilsey, Minister of National Revenue.

"How do I put in my time?" echoed Sir Robert. "Well, I read much; I have a very large correspondence; I am interested in three large business enterprises. I make an occasional public address, but I find that public speaking tires me as the years advance. I have plenty to occupy my time, and thank God I have," Sir Robert said fervently.

Much of his time and effort since relinquishing the Premiership has been devoted to promoting world peace. He was the only Prime Minister in the British Empire who served continuously as such throughout the Great War.

Some of his leisure he spends with a spade or a hoe in his beautiful garden, which overlooks the Rideau River, and passersby frequently mistake him for "the gardener."

Thus, in the autumn of his life, does Sir Robert Borden, having served his country well, salute his fellow citizens—who will hope that he will be spared many more years.

Those Conventions

MANY LISTENING IN ON THE Democrats at Philadelphia this week or on the Republicans at Cleveland two weeks ago have sat back to marvel at the quadrennial national political convention as an established and key institution of American life.

Back of all the purple oratory and heroics, the pre-arranged emotional outbursts, the bands and parading, the horseplay and all the small-boy circus stuff, however, remains the fact that it is a thoroughly democratic institution. It is the place where the threads from all parts of a wide and diversified land are brought together to be worked into the cord of a national policy, which, in turn, is personified in the party's presidential nominee.

Human institutions are usually judged by their results, and on this basis the fruits of the party machinery have averaged high. Although the list of those who have occupied the White House carries the names of several men who have fallen down on the job, it also has its Lincolns, its Clevelands, its Wilsons, and its Theodore Roosevelts. They all came out as candidates from the noise and fustian of gatherings such as we have just been listening in on.

What really counts is the fact that somehow, term after term, these conventions do present the country with candidates who express the varying hopes and longings of the people fairly faithfully; with candidates who, entering the White House, turn out for the most part to be the kind of men who measure up to the duties and responsibilities of that difficult post.

Tuberculosis

VANCOUVER IN PARTICULAR and British Columbia in general are fortunate in having a medical man of the type of Dr. W. H. Hatfield, who is devoting so much time, thought, and study to the problem of tuberculosis—how to prevent it, how to care for it in its incipient stages, and how to cure it when, through lack of attention, the disease has gone almost beyond bounds.

Dr. Hatfield said in Vancouver the other day that patients now have been divided into four groups. He lists them as follows:

1. Those who need active treatment.
2. Contacts and suspected cases, including children who are cared for in the preventorium.
3. Patients discharged from sanataria.
4. Supposedly well persons suffering from or exposed to tuberculosis.

The main handicap which confronts sufferers from pulmonary trouble, of course, is how to take the necessary treatment—and how to find the money for the payment of the bill.

It is well known to the medical profession—it makes us shudder as we say this while so many medical men are Victoria's guests—that if a person in the incipient stage of tuberculosis can be taken in hand, and if he or she takes the proper treatment, and all that goes with it, there is an excellent chance of complete recovery.

Meanwhile, British Columbia has to make up its mind to the melancholy fact that every year more than four thousand of her citizens cross over to the Great Beyond from tuberculosis.

Still "Going Strong"

THERE IS AN OLD SAYING THAT you can't keep a good man down. It has been proved. But at the age of ninety-two, Sir William Mulock has taken off his "silk" and told the Ontario Court of Appeal that, after all, he feels he can no longer carry on as its Chief Justice. Yet he is not "down."

Since 1923, Sir William has been Chief Justice of the province, and as long ago as 1862 he was called to the Ontario bar. As the Canadian Press dispatch tells us, "Sir William is Chancellor of the University of Toronto, a prominent educationist and one of the most widely known of the Canadian legal profession. For four years he held office as one of the examiners and lecturers on equity in the Law Society of Upper Canada, and was appointed first Chief Justice of the Exchequer Division of the High Court of Justice in 1905. Sir William has had remarkably good health, despite his arduous duties and advanced age."

And it is to be noted that he said he was living on "borrowed time." What would the bankers say if they were compelled to lend money on "borrowed time"? What a shock to 7 per cent!

Stream-line Surgery

MEDICAL MEN ARE ADVANCING the theory that leg injuries caused by the modern stream-lined cars, although proportionately fewer, are more difficult to mend than legs broken in the older-fashioned cars.

In earlier days, according to the surgeons, leg fractures occurred at the knee or slightly below it. But with the advent of lower cars, having lower bumpers, it is the bones in the middle or lower part of the leg that suffer injury in most cases, with damage to the softer parts.

There is consolation in the fact that medical science is keeping abreast of the times by devising new methods of dealing with these fractures. Steel wires and pins, we learn, are used to mend these fractures and keep the injured bones in position.

The stream-lining of civilization is bringing new problems to the medical professor as well as to the engineer and sociologist.

Notes

A case of "bridge wrist" is reported. It is a new one to us, although we had heard from married partners of "bridge ankle."

In Jerusalem disorders, Arabs have been guilty of looting. A case of stealing something besides away into the night.

George Bernard Shaw has just issued a new edition of his "Man and Superman." Many who know Shaw still wonder who the "man" can be.

From The Ottawa Journal we learn that there, just as in and around Victoria, the complaint is once more being heard that many bicycle riders using the highways after nightfall break the law, and endanger their own safety, by failure to equip their machines with lights. Every motorist driving after dark goes in fear of running down a bicyclist who is not making his presence known by the means the law directs.

Inauguration of streamlined passenger trains is proving an effective impetus to recovery for the railroads. The new trains are making money where deficits existed before. Speed and modernization have triumphed. The same cannot be said for the railroad freight services. In a recent exhaustive study of this branch, it was found that a certain group of freight cars covered an average of 376 miles in 144 hours. Only twenty-three hours were spent on the road. The remaining time was spent in terminals. Hence it is urged in effect the streamlining of freight services—more mobility in the terminals and greater speed en route. If the railroads do not provide these things, the truckers will be glad to handle the business.

PYRAMIDS

MR. J. S. EASON, of Vancouver, noted Canadian pyramidologist, has announced in Halifax that the hard times in Canada are ending. The great pyramids of Gizeh, Mr. Eason says, state that the depression will lift definitely in September.

This is most encouraging, but the pyramids are a little behind the times. The Canadian Bureau of Statistics, all the chartered banks, every captain of industry, and every politician of note has been saying that the depression was ending for months. In fact, Messrs. Hoover and Bennett said so four years ago. However, now that business indices show that we are actually in a period of prosperity approaching a boom, it is nice to have the confirmation of the pyramids, even if it is a little late. If the pyramids say so, it must be true. And how natural it is, after all, as the pyramidologists believe, that the Egyptians who built the pyramids should know more about our economic system than we do. They probably couldn't know less.

BOOM

AT THE SAME TIME that the pyramids are predicting the end of the depression in September, a noted American banker, whose name escapes me, has been telling his colleagues in convention assembled that we are in for three or four years of tremendous boom, such as we have never seen before. Barring a war, he probably is right. I have been saying this, without being a banker or even knowing any more than a banker, for three years now, but no one would believe me. I often didn't agree with the idea myself.

But what the banker expects after the boom is more interesting. He expects a depression longer and deeper than the one which, according to indisputable statistics, is now over. It doesn't take a banker to figure that out but now, before the boom has fully started, is the only time when we shall see this picture clearly.

As soon as the boom gets going properly, we shall forget that there ever was a depression behind. Bankers will predict a continual rise in stocks. The President of the United States (like Coolidge) will say that his government at last has found the secret of perpetual prosperity. The average man, as in 1929, will say that things are getting better and, in the very peak of the boom, will admit that times may even get good if nothing untoward occurs.

So, on the whole, you had better survey the situation while you are still sane. If the bankers and the pyramids are right—and surely you can trust the pyramids—you won't be sane long. And you had better enjoy the approaching three or four years of boom. It may be some time before you see another.

CLOSING IN

ONLY WE YOKELS in the country, I suppose, have realized the grim thing which occurred this week. You may have glanced at the calendar, but we have seen the thing with our own eyes. The year is over the peak, the longest day is past and the nights are drawing in again. Mr. Pudbury tells me he can definitely tell the difference when he goes out to milk in the morning, though I confess I have not noted it directly myself.

But there is a wonder about the dawn these mornings that you probably have not noticed in the wicked city, unless you have been coming home late from parties, in no condition to notice anything. The sky glows like a sunset, with a great band of orange over the east, almost up to the north, and presently a single bird ventures a soft "cheep cheep," and repeats it, and another joins in, and presently a hoarse robin starts his monotonous wail in the oak woods, and soon the song swells into a loud, pulsating chorus as the dawn comes up.

It comes up with the smell of new-mown hay and roses and dew on the grass. Then you know that, despite all the glory of spring, the summer, the season of full growth and maturity, is the best after all. But these long, splendid days have started to decline already.

EDUCATIONAL

GLADYS, the stenographer, was pounding her typewriter with an extra energy today as if she wanted each pound to count. She had just seen the movies of the Schmeling-Louis fight and it had impressed her deeply.

"You know," said she, "I don't believe in prize-fighting just as an exhibition of strength. I always think that's brutal and debasing. I mean, it debases human beings and lowers our standards and all that when they just beat each other up, don't you think? But you take these pictures of the fight between Schmeling and Louis, they're not brutal. They're educational.

"I mean, it's not as if the men were fighting and beating each other up like an ordinary street brawl like on New Year's Eve. It's an art and a science the way Schmeling and Louis fight. It's the skill that thrills you, not the fighting, if you know what I mean. Why, those boys are as skilful as any craftsman or scientist. It's like watching a beautiful ballet to see the way their muscles work. It's like music. Like poetry. Everybody should see it, I mean, as a matter of education.

"Well, as I was saying, Louis was all right until the fourth when Schmeling caught him one right on the chin and he was almost out, but he came back and seemed to be all right until the eighth when Schmeling landed his right on his jaw so hard that you could hear it click as plain as if you were beside the ring—click, click, just like that. It was grand. And by this time Louis is almost out on his feet, dazed and half dead and then Schmeling catches him another on the chin and you can hear the click again, and his legs fold up and down he goes, out cold. It was grand. Nobody should miss seeing those pictures, not because it's a prize-fight, of course, but because it's educational."

CRAMMED

HAVE YOU EVER tried to write a column? I mean just a column, no more and no less? That is a new difficulty added to the great burdens of this job. A while back I could flow over into another column and drip hither and thither all over this page. Now I have to fit into this column exactly. It is extremely difficult to make your ideas just so long and no longer; and if you are too long the composing room gods upstairs, who are immortal but have no souls, just tell me to chuck out ten lines of type. Have you ever tried to chuck out ten lines of type. It is like chucking out two lobes of the brain. It is better to chuck out the whole thing. I have a great thought right now but not a line to put it into. Just so you'll understand.

ISLAND ROAD EXPENDITURE

To the Editor:—In your report of my talk to the Gyro Club on the 22nd instant, I am quoted as saying that "since 1850 only $6,900,000 had been spent upon island roads." I have no desire to give a wrong impression. I thought that I had explained this figure by stating that it was the present value of the roads on the island on a mileage basis as compared with the province as a whole, which is the best method of arriving at the true position today. When looked into this method of comparison greatly favors the mainland.

A SCHOOL BOOK EXCHANGE

To the Editor:—In your issue of June 19, a worthy suggestion was made by one of your correspondents in connection with the organizing of a school book exchange for the families of the unemployed or semi-employed residents of Greater Victoria, who undoubtedly find it a great hardship to acquire the necessary textbooks for their children.

The undersigned have discussed the project and are willing to undertake the receiving and distribution of surplus books.

Parents and children who have usable books left that they will not require again are asked to donate them for this purpose. All books to be delivered to A. H. Hundleby at the Citizens' Recreation Rooms, 521 Fort Street, phone E6932, or to W. H. Davies, Empire Realty Company, 1008 Broad Street, phone E7441. No distribution will be made until the last week in August, and a close check will be made on the worthiness of the recipients. Those sending in books are asked to bring only those that will be used next school year in either grade or high school.

WEDNESDAY HALF-HOLIDAY

To the Editor:—Would you permit me as a merchant employing a staff of twenty-four to thirty employees, the space in your valuable paper to express my views on this matter.

Only two or three times during the summer does an excursion arrive on Wednesday afternoon, and I feel convinced that the merchants of Victoria who are spending many thousands of dollars with the transportation companies, could influence them to arrange excursions other than on a Wednesday.

Supposing the stores kept open six days a week and allowed clerks a half day off individually, my opinion is that it would give the stores a half-open atmosphere and would seriously jeopardize business, one-sixth of their staff being away every afternoon.

The clerks being given a half-holiday individually instead of collectively would, to my mind, result in a serious setback to all organized sports and consequently a severe loss in sales of sports goods and sports wear to about 1,500 retail employees. The extra trade gained by keeping open on Wednesday afternoon would in no way compensate for this loss of business.

Most tourists are here for at least one full day, if not more, and it is only reasonable to believe they would shop during shopping hours and do their sightseeing during the rest of their stay.

Re sale of antiques to tourists. My experience in this business is that one does not buy these rare and expensive articles during the few hours between boats, but usually takes a day or two while on such a purchasing tour.

One hears about the $1,000 spent to attract tourists to Victoria. In my mind, the money would be better spent in city attractions to entice permanent residents and so reduce our taxes.

Again one must consider or at least should consider the store employees. One cannot expect them to enjoy a half-holiday individually, just as one cannot enjoy a game of golf alone. We all have recollections as employees, the picnic, the fishing trip, the cruise, the mountain climb, the football game, and many other forms of recreation. These beautiful assets of life cannot be enjoyed individually, and there are still those who do not participate in these sports on other than week days. Then why debar these privileges to the retail clerk who needs outdoor recreation particularly in the summer time, as much or more than any other individual for the sake of a very doubtful extra dollar?

THE SEALYHAM TERRIER

From National Geographic Society Bulletin.

The Sealyham terrier is a recent immigrant from Wales. His name comes from an estate near Haverfordwest in Pembrokeshire. Beginning about 1848, the breed was developed by an eccentric old sportsman and retired soldier, Captain Tucker-Edwardes, to hunt out otters and badgers along the little Sealy River, probably named for the "seals" or tracks of otters along its banks. Interested more in results than in renown, the captain left no record of his early breeding experiments, so that rumor and theory alone can describe the origin of the dog. Wanting a dog with short legs to crawl into otter holes, yet fast enough to run with horses and hounds over rocky country, he is said to have crossed the fox terrier with the Dandie Dinmont, and perhaps introduced a strain of the dachshundlike French Basset hound.

The new type of dog was stocky, shaggy and game enough for a long run and a hard claw-to-claw fight, but its reddish-brown coat confused other dogs into attacking it for a fox. Then the captain crossed it with the bull terrier, and obtained for it a white coat with markings in shades of light brown.

Pictures of Sealyhams for the last thirty years show they are growing sturdier and stockier year by year.

RARE LATIN VOLUME

From The Montreal Gazette

The Sherbrooke, Quebec, Library has been the centre of much interest since Harry Grundy, its vice-president, confirmed the announcement that the library is in possession of a perfect copy of "Fasciculus Temporum Omnes Antiquorum Cronicus Complectens," published in 1488 by a Carthusian monk.

Possession of this old volume, published barely thirty-two years after Gutenberg invented printing, was unknown even to the library trustees themselves and its discovery can be credited to the librarian of the Ann Mary Brown Memorial Library of Incunabula, at Providence, R.I.

A few days ago Miss Margaret B. Stillwell, librarian at Providence, wrote as editor of the "Second Census of the Fifteenth Century Books in America", asking of the Sherbrooke library had a copy of the Fasciculus Temporum of 1488, and asked for a transcription of the last colophon which reads as follows: "Impresum argentine per johanem prye, anno domini MCCCCLXXXVIII."

Miss Agnes Duncan, the Sherbrooke librarian, immediately instituted a search for the rare volume. The book has been preserved very well, having a cover of oak and a binding of yellow pigskin. It contains several hundred pages, practically every one of which carries marginal notes in ink. It is printed in medieval Latin with Gothic letters. It carries a large number of early engravings featuring subjects of ancient legends and pictures of Rome, Troy and other cities. A number of illustrated biblical stories are included. It is contended that Caxton used this work to supply an eighth book to "Higden's Polychronicon."

The library authorities have written to Miss Stillwell as well as to the British Museum in London, furnishing full particulars.

PENALIZED ENOUGH ALREADY

From The Toronto Daily Star

Holland taxes Christian names. In case our own alert tax-imposers take up the idea, it might be well to make a distinction. Names like Algernon and Egbert should be taxed lightly. Those who have to wear them are penalized enough already, especially in the public schools where they are promptly renamed Snooty and Mugface.

NOTHING NEW UNDER THE SUN

From The Edmonton Journal

Someone once said that almost any modern slang word already has been used by Shakespeare and with the same slangy twist to its meaning. Probably that is an exaggeration. But certainly it is difficult to find a new slang word unless it is based on inventions or scientific discoveries unknown to our forebears.

Views Differ On Minister's Speech

London Newspaper Comment Varies as to Effects of Secretary of War's Declaration France's Frontier Is Britain's

Associated Press

London, June 26. — Newspaper comment today reflected differing viewpoints on the speech of Rt. Hon. Alfred Duff Cooper, Secretary for War, in Paris, Wednesday evening.

Mr. Duff Cooper reiterated Prime Minister Baldwin's declaration Britain's frontier is on the Rhine, and pleaded for close Anglo-French co-operation as vital to both countries.

The London News-Chronicle, Liberal said: "A considerable number of the government M.P.'s take this view, but even they were disturbed that a British War Minister of all ministers should announce a new foreign policy at Paris of all capitals at this time. Does Duff Cooper's speech represent the policy of the cabinet, they were saying, or does it represent merely his own personal views?"

MISUNDERSTANDING POSSIBLE

—The London Times said statements of foreign policy coming from others than the Prime Minister and Foreign Secretary might cause misunderstanding.

"It is all too easy for other cabinet members to forget how personal pronouncements which are intrinsically innocuous and to which they would themselves attach no official importance can be severed from their occasion and be made to suffer a construction wholly contradictory to the considered statement of British policy."

The times did not mention the Secretary for War by name.

LONDON POST'S VIEWS

The London Morning Post, right-wing Conservative, took note of the possibilities of close Anglo - French co-operation, saying: "Here is an abumbration of the policy which if resolutely followed up would dispel many fears, alike for the future of peace and for the security of our nation. It is a policy which, once properly demonstrated by the government, would, we are convinced, before long enjoy the wholehearted support of the great majority of people."

GERMAN REACTION

Berlin, June 26. — The mouthpiece of the German Foreign Office, the Deutsche Diplomatische Korrespondenz, disclosed irritation among German officials over the speech of Alfred Duff Cooper, British Secretary for War, in Paris.

Although Cooper was not named directly and the address was not published here, the Korrespondenz indicated it was considered "frivolous and astoundingly dilettantist."

The headmaster, Ian Simpson, gave a short resume of the year's work, mentioning the increase in the school enrolment, and the very satisfactory and gratifying achievements in the various branches of the school activities. The health of the school had been excellent throughout the year and in this regard a tribute was paid to the efficiency of the matron. Before calling on J. R. BUREAU WORK IS PRAISED

Montreal Publicity Head Notes Efficiency of System Here

On a budget of $20,000 to $30,000 a year, Victoria gets more returns for publicity than any other city in Canada, in the opinion of John Davidson, Montreal, of the C.P.R. convention bureau and director of the Montreal Tourist and Publicity Bureau, who addressed directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau yesterday.

"Probably nothing brings more money into Canada than the tourist business," said Mr. Davidson, congratulating the bureau on its success. He agreed with George I. Warren that personal contact methods, as employed by the local organization, were best. In all parts of the Pacific slope, he stated, he had seen evidence of the work of the bureau.

"We know our advertising is effective," Mayor Leeming declared in telling the visitor of the bureau's programme. To prove his statement he quoted many interesting statistics.

Publicity work in Victoria started forty years ago, during the gold rush, and has continued almost without a break since, being especially effective since George Warren was engaged in 1921, the mayor said.

"There is no better known man on the Coast than George I. Warren," he said, in outlining personal contact work done in the south.

Tourist business increased 100 per cent in 1934 and 1935, the mayor stated. He predicted that in 1936 trade would increase another 50 per cent, and was still more hopeful for 1937, the city's jubilee year.

In referring to the poor roads in the province, he noted that ever-increasing numbers of tourists from the Canadian prairies were spending their holidays on Canadian highways.

"We must hold our farmers in this country," he explained.

Forty-two billboards are now carrying the message, "Follow the Birds to Victoria" on Pacific Coast highways, Mayor Leeming noted.

Harold Husband said Victoria was awake to the value of tourist trade. On postage stamps alone the bureau spent $1,200 last year, he declared. He commended the new policy of running Seattle-to-Victoria excursions during the summer. It would be of great value to local merchants, he pointed out.

Major J. Gordon Smith, who was to speak on his contacts in a recent trip through the coastal states, was called out of town, it was explained.

STUDY GIVEN CREMATORIUM

Royal Oak Burial Park Trustees Impressed By Vancouver Plant

Following an inspection of the crematorium at Ocean View Cemetery, Vancouver, trustees of the Royal Oak Burial Park yesterday announced that plans they have been tentatively considering for a similar plant at the municipality owned cemetery would be considered from a financial aspect before any recommendation for construction would be made.

The trustees were well satisfied with the Ocean View structure and derived several new ideas from an inspection of the plant.

The Vancouver crematorium is operated with fuel oil which completes cremation in approximately forty-five minutes.

The inspection also revealed several new features which the Royal Oak trustees may include in their chapel plans.

When costs have been surveyed a proposal for financing will be placed before the City of Saanich Councils.

Consideration of the crematorium is one of the numerous improvements contemplated for the Royal Oak Park. Recently the City Council authorized the use of relief labor in assisting the perpetual maintenance of the park and its further development. That action was taken when the council learned similar work was being carried on at Ross Bay Cemetery. The city body ruled similar treatment should be accorded Royal Oak.

CITY OF OTTAWA LOAN RATE 1.65

A syndicate headed by Wood, Gundy Limited, and including the Royal Bank of Canada, the Dominion Bank and Nesbitt, Thomson and Company Limited, bought the issue at 100.869. Last year the city sold a $490,000 issue at an effective rate of 2.42 per cent.

London, June 26 (Associated Press). —Farmers, who demonstrated Wednesday in the city streets in protest against payment of church tithes, which they consider exhorbitant, wrote Prime Minister Baldwin yesterday threatening to exercise their "constitutional right to approach the King" if he should refuse to receive a deputation. JAPAN LOOKS TO GERMANY

Professor Masaharu, in Montreal, Says Alliance Considered

Canadian Press

Montreal, June 26.—A Japanese-German alliance is being considered in Japan, said Professor Masaharu Aneski of Tokio University who passed through here on his way to Europe.

"There still is tension in the eastern Siberia area where Japan and Russia are looking at each other with eyes of suspicion," said the professor.

He held the chair of Buddhistic religion and poetry at Harvard University from 1913 to 1915.

The professor will attend the conference on international intellectual co-operation at Geneva and will return in September to attend the Harvard third centenary celebration, when he will speak on relations between East and West.

BALDWIN TOLD OF GERMAN ARMING

Associated Press

Newcastle, England, June 26.—Lord Londonderry, former Minister of Air, in a speech at Newcastle yesterday evening said he was surprised at Prime Minister Baldwin's allegation of having been misled concerning Germany's rearmament.

Lord Londonderry said: "Mr. Baldwin was never misled. He continually was being told by me not only of the German rearmament in the air, but of the approximate rate of that rearmament."

Mr. Baldwin's allegation was made in the House of Commons.

HOW TO BID FOUR-CARDERS

Players Face Difficult Problem With Short Suits to Avoid Getting Too Soon Into High Zones

By WM. E. McKENNEY

This is the last of a series of four articles, based upon less known, but fundamental, bidding situations discussed by Charles H. Goren of Philadelphia, in his new book, "Winning Bridge Made Easy."

BIDDING OF FOUR-CARD SUITS

Hands containing two biddable four-card suits frequently are difficult to manage. If the suits rank next to each other, as for instance, hearts and spades, there is no difficulty. The normal bid of the higher ranking suit is made.

If the hand is very strong, again the normal bid is made. There will be no difficulty, as in that case the rebid may be two no trump.

With mediocre hands, however, a player sometimes is embarrassed in finding a rebid, if normal bidding is followed.

SOLUTION TO PREVIOUS CONTRACT PROBLEM

♠ A K 6 4
♥ 9 7
♦ 8 6 3
♣ A Q 7 5 11-1

Take this holding:

If, with this hand, you open a spade and partner responds with two hearts, you are in difficulties. The better procedure is to depart from normal bidding and bid one club, so that over partner's response of one diamond or one heart you may bid one spade.

When holding spades and diamonds, it is very difficult to choose the best opening bid. One rule can be laid down that has stood the test of much practice. If your distribution is 4-4-3-1, always select the suit which ranks just below your singleton.

If your distribution is 4-4-3-2 (with spades and diamonds highest), name the suit which ranks just below your doubleton.

Thus, holding—

♠ A K 6 3
♥ J 8 6
♦ A Q 7 6
♣ 4 2 11-2

the best bid is one spade, the suit ranking just below your doubleton. Partner's expected response is two clubs. You may then bid two diamonds.

On the other hand, if you open with one diamond and partner bids two clubs, you will be compelled to bid two spades. Your partner, if he has to return to your first suit, must bid three diamonds, which may be too high.

Today's Contract Problem

South has opened the bidding with one spade, and West has bid up to six hearts, which North doubles. What card should North lead?

MALE CHOIR TO GIVE RECITAL

Programme Will Help John Howard Society

Those who are in sympathy with the work of the John Howard Society in Victoria will have an opportunity to help tomorrow afternoon when the Victoria Male Choir, under the direction of Frank Tupman, will give a twilight recital in the Memorial Hall at 3 o'clock for the benefit of this organization.

In the absence of Dean Quainton, president, Rev. C. G. MacKenzie, who has acted as secretary, will preside. A brief statement will be made concerning the local work, including comment on the case of Jack King. As this is the last Sunday of Mr. MacKenzie in the community the performance is in the nature of a farewell to one who has given much time to this branch of community service. The programme will be as follows:

"Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" (Bach), "Hear Dem Bells" (Strickland), "Peaceful Lake" (Schumann), "Destruction of Gaza" (De'rile), solo, "Total Eclipse," by Fred Arnot (Handel), "Laudamus" (Protheroe), "Old Woman" (Roberton), "The Pilot" (Protheroe); string quartette, theme from the "Emperor's Quartette" (Haydn), Chris Miller, Gil Margison, John Pimm, Herb Botten; "The Long Day Closes" (Sullivan), "Great Is Jehovah" (Schubert), soloist, Beatrice Floyd; solo, "The Lost Chord," H. S. Batey (Sullivan); "Victory" (Protheroe), "Hallelujah Chorus" (Handel), God Save the King.

Mr. Tupman will conduct. Miss Maquinna Daniels will be accompanist.

HONEST CITIZEN RETURNS MONEY

W. N. Lenfesty, who once rated as Victoria's outstanding amateur baseball pitcher, has set a new example for integrity.

At the city school board meeting this week, he returned the sum of forty cents to the board, the excess amount he had collected for fence posts dividing his property from Beacon Hill School.

The board went into the fence question quite extensively at the meeting. It received an offer from F. Galley, 2946 Quadra Street, to fence off this property from North Ward School if the board provided the material.

On another project the board stayed "strictly on the fence," as it considered a request for cheap material for a division line between private property and school ground.

New Books On The Library Shelves

"Character Education" (Harry C. McKown) is a vigorous and stimulating book which stresses practice rather than theory in an endeavor to present a complete and accurate picture of character education today. The author offers a background treatment of educational, psychological and sociological principles and then describes and evaluates material, methods and opportunities as found in the home, the school and other community institutions.

"Searchlight on the Navy" (Hector C. Bywater) gives a complete review of the naval situation in post-war years, leading up to a careful analysis of the present situation.

"General Theory of Employment, Interest and Money" (John Maynard Keynes) contains a further development of some of the ideas expounded in volume one of the "Treatise on Money." It is an abstract, theoretical argument, addressed specifically to economists, and generally it is opposed to orthodox economic theory.

"Graphs: How to Make and Use Them" (Herbert Arkin and Raymond Colton) attempts to present the best current technique in graph making, ranging from simple to advanced graphic presentation. There are many illustrations.

"Interpretations" (Walter Lippmann) is a series of 150 articles, selected from those published in The New York Herald-Tribune, circa January, 1933, to September, 1935. Most of the interpretations deal with various aspects of the depression, the Roosevelt programme, democratic government and international affairs. Certain of Mr. Lippmann's articles upon phases of social history have been included.

"Boom Begins" (Lawrence Angas) is a sequel to "The Coming American Boom." The present volume shows that inflation is already here, with more to come, and discusses monetary effects of business fluctuation and the stock market situation.

"Young King" (Lawrence Binyon) is a play in blank verse, based on the story of the rebellion against Henry II of England by his son, Henry, who had been crowned King while his father still lived, and was known as the Young King.

"Codoo Fire in Haiti" (Richard A. Loederer) is a book of great charm and fascination. The author, a Viennese artist, spent several months in Haiti, studying the land, its people and customs. This account of his experiences is illustrated with numerous woodcuts.

"Epitaph on George Moore" (Charles Morgan) is only a short book of fifty-six pages. Several years before his death, George Moore invited the author of this sketch to be his biographer, and so appointed him in his will. The larger work was found to be impossible of accomplishment, but Charles Morgan has here given some of his impressions of Moore's character and genius.

"Savage Squadrons" (Sergei Kournakoff) is a personal narrative. The author was an intrepid young lieutenant in the Caucasian cavalry during the Great War and the revolution in Russia. He has packed his story with the thunder of both the Red and White Russians.

"I Break Strikes" (E. Levinson) is written wholly from the point of view of labor. Pearl Louis Bergoff was the head of a pseudo-detective agency which specialized in settling industrial troubles. His company was but one of several, but he is the self-admitted King of the Strikebreakers. He has chosen able lieutenants or "Nobles" . . . mainly men of long police records, with many prison records, some only out on parole. Bergoff has been employed by many large corporations . . . Standard Oil, Tidewater Oil, Carnegie Steel, Erie Railroad, Goodyear, Goodrich and Firestone rubber companies.

"Influence of Women and Its Cure" (John Erskine) is an amusing book. Mr. Erskine honors two types of women only: the home-maker and wage-earner. But the woman who is neither, who lives like a parasite on society, supported by men of the leisure class, should (according to Mr. Erskine) be liquidated. He speaks of the "lawlessness" of woman en masse; he fears for the future of human culture if the "mass movement" of women toward power should oust man from his last stronghold.

"Radio Explained" (John Langson-Davies) is a popular explanation of the fundamental principles of radio and an account of their gradual discovery from the days of the Greeks to Marconi and Edison.

"Defender of Democracy" (Emil Ludwig) is the record of a series of conversations with Masaryk in which Ludwig attempted to discover the President's views on a variety of social, political and moral questions. The first chapter contains a reprint of the article which first appeared in "Nine Etched from Life."

Those who are interested in music will be glad to hear of the addition of the following books:

FICTION

"Voice of Bugle Ann" (Mack Cantor) is a truly good dog story. Bugle Ann, a foxhound whose hunting days and nights were spent in the Missouri hills, was so well loved by her master that he shot the man who was suspected of killing her. This long short story first appeared in The Atlantic Monthly for August, 1935.

"Thinking Reed" (Rebecca West) is a story of love and marriage in high society in present-day France. Isabelle, a rich young widow from St. Louis, goes to France to seek a new life. Her heritage is part French and she hopes to regain her ruffled composure in the land of her ancestors. She is a clever, calculating woman and a very lovely one, so she falls quite easily into the French way of living. After a love affair she marries for security and falls in love with her mediocre but kindly husband.

(From The Times Files)

The June law examinations commenced this morning when more than fifty applicants for admission began writing. It is the largest examination in the province and there are men from cities and country, and also from other parts of the Dominion and from England, trying for the right to practice in this province.

The Attorney-General's department has issued orders for the carrying out of the recommendations of the last grand jury for improved fire protection at the provincial jail here. It is understood that when Attorney-General Bowser returns from the Old Country, the question of a new jail will be taken up.

Men who were unable to get out from the interior of the Yukon before the winter set in and froze all the lakes and rivers, and who were forced to spend the dreary months in their shacks with the little pile of gold they were so fortunate enough to secure, came south on the Princess May, which arrived in port yesterday.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in Christ Church Cathedral on Tuesday evening, when Very Rev. Dean Doull united in marriage Miss Margery Sherburn, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Sherburn, of Oscar Street, and Mr. Allan E. Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Mitchell of Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. Beaumont Boggs have gone to Vancouver to meet their son, who is returning from Kingston Military College to spend the holiday at home.

PARK ENTRANCE ONE-WAY ROAD

The entrance to Beacon Hill Park directly opposite South Park School has been made a one-way street for automobiles and may be used only by those going into the park at that point, W. H. Warren, parks superintendent, announced today.

Cars leaving the park at that end will be required to take the road skirting the southeasterly section of the artificial lake and proceed to town via Rupert Street and Humboldt.

The action was taken to give further protection to children playing in the vicinity of the lake where the roadway is narrow.

Weddings

BROWN—TAYLOR

A quiet wedding took place Wednesday evening at St. Alban's Church, Rev. F. W Weaver officiating, between Miss Ivy Taylor eldest daughter of Mrs. W. Daniel of Winnipeg, and the late Mr. J. R. Taylor, and Mr. William Brown, youngest son of Mrs. R. O. Brown, 929 Catherine Street. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Neville Taylor, and wore a pale blue silk crepe dress with white accessories, and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and pink carnations. Miss Hazel Wescott was the bridesmaid, carrying a bouquet of pink carnations, and Mr. Walter Rabey supported the groom.

A reception was held later at the home of the bridegroom's mother. The rooms were decorated in pink and white. The bridal couple stood beneath a big pink and white wedding bell to receive congratulations of their many friends.

The supper table, centred with the wedding cake and surrounded with vases of pink carnations and tall pink candles in silver holders. Those assisting with the serving of the refreshments were Mrs. J. McDavitt, Mrs. M. Smith, Mrs. C. Burgess, Mrs. N. Taylor, Miss E. Brayshaw and Miss M. Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Brown left at midnight for Vancouver, where they will spend their honeymoon. The bride went away in a blue swagger suit with white accessories.

O'HAGAN—McPHILLIPS

Of much interest in Victoria was the wedding in Vancouver on Wednesday morning at 10.30, when Miss Frances Morgan McPhillips was quietly married to Mr. James Powell O'Hagan at Holy Rosary Cathedral, with Rev. Father Nichol officiating. Miss McPhillips, who is the youngest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. X. McPhillips of Vancouver, was attended by Miss Kathleen Solloway and Miss Eileen O'Hagan, sister of the groom, while Mr. O'Hagan, who is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. O'Hagan of the mainland city, was attended by Harry O'Hagan.

For her wedding the bride chose an attractive afternoon model of white triple sheer with cowl neckline, the three-quarter length sleeves moulded into the short jacket with its flared back and rolled collar, and shallow-crowned, large brimmed finely woven straw hat. Her bouquet of sweet peas, roses and stocks shaded from white to rose.

Her two bridesmaids, Miss Solloway in dusky pink, and Miss O'Hagan in delphinium blue, chose informal flat crepe frocks fashioned with utmost simplicity, the short coats finished with cording around the neckline and cape sleeves, while a corded girdle fastened at the front. Their hats in blending tones were summer felts, and their bouquets were composed of blue delphinium and pink snapdragon. Miss Dorothy McPhillips sang "Salve Regina," written by Mr. Dalton Baker, who presided at the organ.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. O'Hagan and his bride left for the south and on their return will reside in Vancouver

Wedding At St. Mary's Today

Marchant-Ferguson Nuptials Pretty Ceremony

In a lovely setting of delphiniums, white carnations and white campanula effectively arranged in St. Mary's Church, Oak Bay, an interesting wedding took place this afternoon at 1 o'clock when Rev. Canon A. E. Nunns united in marriage Winnifred, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ferguson, 2549 Cavendish Avenue, and Mr. Donald St. Clair Marchant, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Marchant, 1385 Hampshire Road, Oak Bay.

Mr. Dudley Wickett presided at the organ and to the strains of the Bridal Chorus from "Lohengrin," the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a gown of white lace, with floor-length skirt and with the bodice finished with a cowl-neckline and dolman sleeves. Her wedding veil of soft silk net was attached to her head in cap effect with orange blossoms at the nape of the neck, while in place of the conventional bouquet she carried a prayerbook, showered with white ribbons tied with white flowers.

There were three attendants on the bride, Miss Doreen Kennelly, wearing a frock of peach taffeta trimmed with blue and a white hat; Miss Velda Coleman, also in peach taffeta with beige hat, and Miss Lillian Stark wearing yellow taffeta and hat to match. They wore lace mittens adorned with ruchings to match their gowns, and carried Colonial bouquets.

The bridegroom was supported by Mr. Percy North of Vancouver and the ushers were Messrs. Ross Ferguson, brother of the bride, and Ronald Coleman.

A reception at which only members of the two families and a few intimate friends were present was held at the home of the bride's parents, where Mrs. Ferguson and Mrs. Marchant assisted in welcoming the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Marchant left later by motor for a trip up the island and on their return to Victoria will make their home on St. Patrick Street. For traveling the bride wore a tan-colored suit with blue hat and other accessories in blue.

On the eve of his marriage the bridegroom was presented with a handsome dinner service from the members of the office staff of the B.C. Electric Company, on which staff he is a meter reader. Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. T. North and Mr. Percy North of Vancouver.

Alexandra Rose Day Tomorrow

Tomorrow the small pink roses made by crippled girls in London, England, will be on sale in the city, in aid of local child welfare work, the occasion being Alexandra Rose Day.

This empire-wide appeal was inaugurated by Queen Alexandra and has been carried on for many years, the Canadian appeal being in charge of the I.O.D.E. There has always been a ready and generous response to Alexandra Rose Day, and the committee in charge of the sale hope that the public, whose generosity is sorely tried these days, will not be able to resist the appeal of "the rose." Children of all ages benefit from this fund in needy homes, in the Solarium, the Fred Landsberg camp for mothers and children and undernourished children of school age.

A very small percentage of the proceeds is sent to the institution for crippled children in England, who make the flowers and who benefit by the purchase of the roses all over the empire. Children are a nation's greatest asset, and no stone should be left unturned to ensure them growing up into healthy citizens.

Delightful Reception At Government House

His Honor and Mrs. E. W. Hamber Entertain Medical Delegates and Wives Today at Reception; Nearly 1,000 Guests

Climaxing a week of brilliant social functions designed to honor the delegates to the Canadian Medical Association and their wives, who have been in the city for the last week, His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. Eric W. Hamber were "at home" at Government House this afternoon to nearly 1,000 guests.

LOVELY FLOWERS

A brilliant floral display greeted the guests in the spacious entrance hall and corridors, delphiniums in all shades of blue, roses, campanulas gladiolas and antirrhinums adding their color and fragrance to the setting. Similar flowers were used in profusion in the drawing room, where His Honor and Mrs. Hamber received their guests, the hostess, a charming figure in a smart gown of crepe of flowered pattern in purple and white on a black ground, the jacquette effect being outlined at neck and at the edge of the long full sleeves with accordeon-pleating, while slippers of black crepe completed her toilette.

In attendance were the aides, Lieut. H. V. Groos, R.C.N., and Lieut. F. E. Grubb, R.C.N.; Capt. R. L Mitchell, Lieut. T. H. Woolsey and Mr. Hew Paterson, and the private secretaries, Mr. A. M. D. Fairbairn and Capt. J. G. Cromack.

In the ballroom, where refreshments were served from a long buffet table, beautifully appointed and adorned with masses of summer flowers in artistic effect, begonias were massed before the fireplace, in the window embrasures and on the dais, where Len Acres and his five-piece orchestrad dispensed a programme of music.

Lovely Floral Motif For Wedding

Miss Hazel M. Hesson Married to Mr. John H. Newberry

Rev. Edwin Bracher officiated at the wedding solemnized in the Grace Lutheran Church yesterday evening at 8 o'clock, when Hazel Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hesson, Glanford Avenue, became the bride of Mr. John Harold Newberry, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. Newberry of England. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with baskets of maidenhair ferns, delphiniums and roses, and archway of roses and sweet peas in the pastel shades.

Mr. Hesson gave his daughter in marriage. She was an attractive figure in her gown of heavy white bridal satin, the long train falling from the waistline, which was belted in the back and finished with a satin buckle. The neckline was marked with satin flowers, and the deep sleeves were full to the elbow, ending in tight satin cuffs trimmed with satin buttons. Her graceful veil of bridal illusion was trimmed with lace and sprays of orange blossoms, and was turned off the face with a coronet of lace outlined with pearls and orange blossom buds. She carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and orchids.

Mrs. H. McKenzie, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a pretty floor-length gown of powder blue net, flounced at the knee and with ruffles at the neckline, and a sash of taffeta. Her hat was of pink crepe de chine trimmed with flowers, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and carnations.

Little Marguerite Richdale, in orchid, and Hellen Pollock, in pale green, the junior bridesmaids, were gowned alike in long quaint taffeta frocks, with frills at the throat and trimmings of self-covered buttons. They wore hair bandeaux of flowers and carried colonial bouquets of salmon Ophelia roses and pastel sweet peas. Mr. Hugh McKenzie, brother-in-law of the bride, was groomsman.

Miss Albertine Millar was at the organ and played the wedding marches and also accompanied Miss Christine Schmelz, who sang the solo "Because." Mr. Ronald Heater was the usher.

RECEPTION HELD

Many guests attended the reception held at the home of the bride's parents, where the young couple stood beneath an arch of mauve and salmon sweet peas, flanked by baskets of roses and snapdragons, similar flowers being used throughout the home. Mrs. Hesson received the guests in a gown of black satin, trimmed with gold lace at the neckline and small clips, and a black hat with white flowers, and was assisted by Mrs. J. McWha, aunt of the bride, wearing black silk crepe and a black hat. Both wore corsage bouquets of white carnations and sweet peas. During the reception Mr. J. Milton gave selections on the bagpipes.

The three-tiered wedding cake centred the supper table, which was decorated with silver ribbon streamers and rose and mauve sweet peas in silver vases and rose-colored candles in silver holders. The bride's cake in white and silver, a gift from a friend, was on a separate table covered with a hand-made lace cloth.

Among the many gifts was an electric combination waffle maker, griddle, and sandwich toaster from the bridegroom's associates in the Government Printing Bureau.

Mr. and Mrs. Newberry left later for Vancouver, whence they will sail today for a honeymoon cruise to Alaska. The bride traveled in a blue suit with pink and white accessories, silver fox furs, the gift of the groom, and a corsage bouquet of orchids. On their return they will reside in their new home, 1936 Forrester Street.

Girls' Play Ends In Death of One

Associated Press

Evansville, Ind., June 26.—Five little tots, all of one family, last week decided to play "tea party." They obtained some cups, but had only water for the make-believe tea.

One found a bottle filled with a greenish substance to which they added water to make "green tea."

All became sick and one of them died in a hospital here yesterday. The other four were critically ill today and physicians despaired of their lives. It was poison the children used to color the water, the doctors said.

The child who died was seven-year-old Norma Maxine Sepro, whose father, Emmett Sepro, is a coal miner at Yankeetown.

Efforts are being made to speed up air travel between the Netherlands and Netherland India to a two and one-half day trip.

Tons of ammunition, some of it unexploded, are still being recovered from French ground where World War battles were fought.

"Folly and Farewell"

By MARIE BLIZARD

BEGIN HERE TODAY

LINDA BOURNE, twenty, pretty, is left almost penniless by the sudden death of her father.

PETER GARDINER, newspaper reporter, helps her get a job writing society news. Linda is in love with DIX CARTER, but he goes abroad to study singing. When Peter asks Linda to marry him she agrees, but postpones the wedding.

HONEY HARMON, film star, comes to Newtown, making a "personal appearance" tour, and buys a scenario written by Linda. Later Linda goes to Hollywood and, by expressing ideas that are really Peter's acquires a reputation for being able to discover new stars. Soon she is a celebrity.

Dix Carter comes to Hollywood to get into films as an actor. Linda tries to help him. To please Dix, she invites BASIL THORNE, director, to her home though she dislikes and distrusts Thorne.

Peter Gardiner writes a successful play and comes to Hollywood.

Thorne drives Linda to a mountain resort where the company is to begin work next day. The others fail to arrive. There is trouble with the car and Linda and Thorne are obliged to stay through the night.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI

"I'm entirely serious," Basil Thorne said.

"So am I," Linda answered shortly. She might play to a role by candlelight or at a civilized hour of the day, but it was too much to expect of her at this hour of the morning.

Her thoughts just then concerned nothing more romantic than a hot tub and fresh clothing. Whatever visions floated in her mind's eye were those of steaming, fragrant food and heavenly coffee. And Basil Thorne expected her to be romantic! At least, she thought he did, since he had proposed to her.

It was entirely apparent to him that she was not in the mood to discuss the matter. She probably wasn't even thinking of it. Didn't have the faintest idea of the great favor that he had—much to his own surprise—conferred upon her. Confound the situation! He didn't want to get married!

The big white car sped over the lonely road, and the sky brightened and broke into a flame of color with the rising sun and wakening world. Still the two rode, huddled in their great coats, silent and fatigued, quiet with their separate thoughts.

Why had she ever been afraid of him, Linda wondered. He had been nice last night and now he was meek as a lamb. And he had proposed to her. It had surprised her because Basil wasn't what she'd call a marrying man. It hadn't surprised her in the least that he had offered her marriage instead of a less respectable proposition. Linda was the kind of girl that men propose to.

* * *

That was precisely what Basil Thorne was thinking in his glum silence. The idea of marriage appalled him, but he grudgingly admitted that marriage to a girl like Linda was the only acceptable way. The more he thought about it, the more real it became to him. He pictured the smooth continuity of life with this well-bred girl. His mental pictures of their home life were drawn from a composite series of photographs and movie sequences. It was a conglomerate range of portraits: Linda in a flowing gown, pouring tea; Linda with flaxen-haired children in faultless English clothes about her knee; Linda as the hostess at a modest dinner party of some 300 guests. He went up several degrees in his own estimation. If thinking of it could do that much to him, he needed her! She must marry him.

He reviewed what he frankly called his method of attack. Linda was not like the other girls he had known in Hollywood; he couldn't dangle fame before her eyes. He must be gentle, charming and persuasive. And, failing that, he had a powerful weapon. He was not above using it. Meanwhile, he would content himself with a trial of his first method.

"Linda," he broke the silence, "I didn't ask you to marry me because I thought it was the gallant thing to do. I've been wanting to ask you since the first day we met.

"I'm not going to pretend to you that there have been no other women in my life, but I'm going to ask you to believe that you are the first woman who has ever made me feel that I would want to live up to her ideals."

"Thank you, Basil," Linda didn't think that was a very enthusiastic response, but if the man would persist it was just too bad.

"I haven't very much to offer you"—so he was still proposing?—"I don't mean money, of course." His expansive gesture of sweeping hand indicated millions of dollars. "I am thinking of myself. I'm only an old duffer; clumsy, but I've got a heart. Linda."

* * *

Linda was very much bored and entirely tired of this speech.

"I haven't ever had advantages. My background wasn't the sort that polishes the edges, but I have character and I have gotten somewhere in the world. A girl like yourself would be making no bad bargain."

He looked out of the corner of his eye to see how that was going over. It wasn't, so he tried a new line.

"I suppose it will sound funny to you, my dear, but I've always wanted a woman to mother me. My own dear mother died when I was a little chap. A man can grow up starved for that kind of love, and few women ever appeal to him that way."

"I'm sorry you think I am that one woman, Basil," Linda replied finally. "I hope you are mistaken. Because there just isn't anything I can do about it. I don't love you and I can't marry you."

She wished she could tell him that she loved Dix, was going to marry him, but she was afraid that if she did, he would deny Dix his chance, the thing that she had been working toward so hopefully.

"Is there someone else?" he asked with his voice pitched at the lowest dramatic level.

She didn't answer because she didn't want to lie; she smiled and said quickly, "Please let's turn off the main road here. At all costs we must avoid meeting the others. And, once more, please, Basil, will you promise never to breathe a word about this?"

If Hollywood heard about it, Linda knew that she was through. There was only one way that they might be discovered, and that was if either she or Basil Thorne themselves were to tell about it. There was no simulated intensity in her plea to him.

Thorne hugged her with his free arm, giving her a brotherly squeeze. "You worry too much," he said.

* * *

That wasn't exactly reassuring, and later that day Linda remembered little things about Thorne's eyes, a quirk at the corner of his mouth when he had said it. She felt the beginning of a disquieting cloud of doubt that was to grow with time.

As she had expected, one of the telephone messages she had ignored the day before told her that there was a change of plans and the company was postponing the trip to San Jacinto until the next week. If only she had seen it, she might have avoided that trip and would not now be worrying lest it become known and destroy her. Because destroy her it would. She was too important to be able to stand a breath of scandal. Only unimportant people could afford that in the movie colony where discretion was an obligation.

It was too much for Linda to keep to herself. She didn't intend to tell Dix, but when he told her he had been telephoning her the night before, she told him the whole story, hoping and knowing that he would believe her.

"But why be so upset about it?" Dix said in his lazy way.

"If you must know, Dix, I don't trust Thorne. He isn't exactly a gentleman, and I have reason to believe that he isn't to be trusted." There were several things Linda hadn't told Dix, yet she expected and wanted him to share her feeling about Thorne.

Dix grasped her by her elbow and looked into her eyes. "Did he make love to you last night?" he demanded.

Linda loved that. He was jealous. "No, he only proposed to me."

He let her go. "Then that's all right. I think you've got him all wrong. Just forget it, Linda."

The unpleasant thought occurred to her that Dix really didn't care whether Thorne had made love to her or not, that his anxiety was only that she might have spoiled things for him. She dismissed the thought as unfair and untrue.

Your Baby's Health

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

One of the most important considerations in any child's education is training in health habits. As I have emphasized repeatedly, this should be begun early in infancy and should be maintained regularly throughout childhood.

The essential habits include those which affect eating, cleanliness, sleeping and exercise.

Dr. M. Fishbein

One of the important habits concerned in eating is feeding one's self. Most children can be taught to feed themselves by the end of the second year. For a child to be fed by another after this time is abnormal and unfortunate.

The child should be taught to eat a variety of foods, and not to make an entire meal of one or two substances. While children may be sensitive to one or two articles of diet, there still remains a vast variety of foods from which to choose.

Children should be taught to eat foods that are proper for them and not to want coffee, candy or other foods of their own choosing, in amounts not suitable to their years.

Children should eat slowly and chew thoroughly. They can be taught to chew by giving them solid food and such substances as hard, dry crackers, zwieback, crisp toast, and similar substances, after their molar teeth have developed.

Finally, the baby should drink water several times a day between meals, as well as the water which regularly accompanies the meals.

Especially important is emphasis on the baby's feeding itself and eating without too much trouble. The baby that lacks appetite learns to play with the food.

Parents encourage this by feeding the baby and amusing it during the eating. The child develops less and less desire for food and will probably learn to vomit, just to avoid eating.

Most experts now advise that the food should be given at regular hours and, in fifteen or twenty minutes, be taken away, even though none has been eaten. The child should not be offered more food until the next regular meal.

It is hardly worth while to spend much time talking to the child, because coaxing only makes matters worse.

New Bridge Plans In Terminal City

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 26.—A resolution instructing the city engineer to proceed immediately with plans for the First Avenue bridge will be submitted to the Vancouver City Council next Monday by Alderman W. W. Smith, chairman of the civic board of works, it was announced yesterday.

Under an agreement made many years ago with the Great Northern Railway Company and the Canadian National Railway Company, each company is liable for approximately one-third of the cost of the bridge, which will total about $430,000.

It is reported the city is ready to institute court action if necessary to force the railway companies to assume their share of the cost.

REMOVE NAIL IN BOY'S LUNG

Philadelphia Specialist Performs Bloodless Operation With Local Anaesthetic

Associated Press

Philadelphia, June 26. — Three-year-old Kelvin Rogers came from the other side of the world for an operation that took just seven minutes yesterday. A three-inch wire nail was taken from his lower right lung.

The "no visitors" sign was on the door to the little Australian's room in Temple University Hospital, and it will remain there for at least two days while physicians watch his recovery from the bloodless operation in the famed bronchoscopic clinic of Dr. Chevalier Jackson. The hospital today reported he was "doing nicely."

The boy's mother, Mrs. Marjorie Rogers, will remain with him in the hospital until physicians are satisfied Kelvin definitely is out of danger. Mrs. Rogers hopes to return to Australia with her boy on the steamship Jeff Davis which brought them here. It will sail July 30.

The operation was performed with the perfected bronchoscope, invented by Dr. Jackson, with the aid of the biplane fluoroscope.

The fluoroscope, actuated by X-rays, gives a three-dimension shadow picture by which surgeons are able to direct the slender bronchoscope through the mouth directly to a foreign body. Forceps inserted in the tube are attached to the object to withdraw it.

Only a local anaesthetic is given.

Melvin inhaled the nail about eighteen months ago. Two unsuccessful attempts were made to remove it before physicians decided to send him to Philadelphia. They said it would cause his death if not removed.

Your Baby and Mine

BABY'S HOT WEATHER DIET SHOULD BE LESS "HEAVY" THAN WINTER DIET

Even in good health an adult cannot digest in hot weather the sumptuous and "heavy" meals he relishes when it is cold. Yet, young parents are so eager to keep up a child's weight that they are apt to want to carry on the whole scheme of diet, no matter what the temperature.

It is wise, when the weather is torrid, to allow a child to dictate what he himself wants to eat. But when he is hungry, give him what he wants, taking precautions to leave out of the diet those foods which contribute too largely to the heat and energy of the body.

WHAT FOODS TO OMIT

Mrs. D. M. writes: "My baby is eleven months old. At breakfast he eats some kind of cereal, fruit, such as prunes or applesauce or orange juice, and evaporated milk to drink.

"For lunch he gets canned vegetables, half a banana and milk. At night he has potatoes, puddings or custard and milk. He also gets halibut liver oil.

"Should any of these foods be omitted and what other ones would you suggest be added to his diet? Are new potatoes good for babies?"

TOO MANY STARCHES

Better use old and riper potatoes if any. Your present diet seems overweighted with starches for the hot weather. Use gelatin and cooked fruits, omit the potatoes and puddings and add cottage cheese, meat juices or soups or scraped meats. You may have the leaflet, "Foods to Be Avoided in the Child's Summer Diet," for a self-addressed and three-cent stamped envelope sent to Myrtle Meyer Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department of this newspaper.

Want Late M.P.P.'s Picture Hung Here

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 26.—Removal of an oil painting of the late Mrs. Mary Ellen Smith, first woman legislator in British Columbia, from the Vancouver Museum to the Parliament Building, Victoria, was requested by the Women's Liberal Association yesterday in an application to the civic finance committee.

The question was referred to the council representatives on the Art Historical Society.

Boy Custody Suit Finally Settled

Associated Press

Los Angeles, June 26.—Judge Harry Archibald yesterday approved an agreement ending the family dispute over the custody and earnings of Freddy Bartholomew, child screen actor.

The agreement gave the custody of the twelve-year-old star to his aunt, Myllicent Mary Bartholomew. The boy's parents, Cecil Llewellyn Bartholomew and Lilian May Bartholomew, were awarded the right to visit him as often as they cared to, so long as this did not interfere with his movie work.

The Union Bank and Trust Company was named as guardian of Freddie's estate and his earnings—unofficially estimated at $1,250 per week—were ordered distributed as follows:

Ten per cent to the father, 5 per cent each to his minor sisters, Eileen and Hilda, and the remainder to his own estate.

From the estate the expenses of the boy actor and his aunt will be paid. The residue will go towards building a fund for his education and future needs.

Fifteen uses have been found for ground walnut shells, including use in roofing paper, in rubber compounds, ad as a filler in mechanic's soaps and dynamite.

Carpet beetles were brought to the United States about a century ago, and have spread to homes in many sections of the country.

SUNSHINE INN SHOWING LOSS

Deficit of $131.66 For May Indicated on Balance Sheet

The total cash income during May amounting to $62.29 failed to meet the cash operating expenses of Sunshine Inn by $131.66, which is the deficit shown by the balance sheet prepared by Capt B. J. Gadsden, manager.

May payments totaled $193.95 in cash, to which was added the value of donations made in goods during the month which were placed at $112.06. This made a total operating amount of $306.01 to provide 3,817 meals, or an average of eight cents per meal.

There have been 22,260 meals provided at Sunshine Inn from January 1 to May 31, at a cash expense of $1,078.68, averaging 4-6 10 cents each meal in cash, without taking into account contributions in kind.

The total cash operating loss since January 1 amounts to $421.92, after allowing for receipts and donations in cash during that period.

The grand total of meals since commencement, which covers a period of four years and five months, is 327,442 (included are 8,656 meals to women and 61,907 to children applicants).

Commencing on June 1 one good meal is being provided for needy persons each day in the afternoon between 3.30 and 4.30 o'clock, and an average of 80 per cent of the applicants are of advanced age and not employable at hard work.

Sunshine Inn is now being decorated with a fresh coat of paint donated by J. C. Pendray, and the work is being done by volunteers from among the men who have their meals at the inn. The trimmings and sash will be painted by a professional painter, R. J. Rogers, who volunteered to do this work. Miller & Paterson are repainting the name signs which were originally donated by them. J. J. Ross & Son have supplied generous assistance and ladders.

SILICOSIS IS BIG PROBLEM

Miner's Affliction Described By Sir F. Banting as Most Serious in Industry

"The most important industrial disease of the day "was the description given of silicosis yesterday afternoon by Sir Frederick Banting, in a paper which he read before the general session of the convention of the Canadian Medical Association at the Empress Hotel.

Silicosis, he explained, was caused by the prolonged inhalation of silica-contained dust. Hard rock miners, sand blasters, stone cutters, lens grinders and other workers exposed to the fine particles were the chief sufferers.

Silicosis was generally accompanied by lung infection, said Sir Frederick. The infection, usually tuberculosis, often seemed more serious than the original disease itself. Pathologists rarely found a case of advanced silicosis in a lung free from tuberculosis.

This was so much the case that some research workers believed that if tuberculosis infection were completely eliminated, silicosis itself would cease to be a major problem.

If a person were removed from an occupation which brought him into contact with the dust in the early stages of silicosis, little harm would be done. However, the difficulty, said Sir Frederick, was that clinical manifestations were not apparent in the early stages of the disease, and workers generally remained in contact with the dust until the disease had reached a more serious stage.

The solution, he said, was in prevention both by controlling the dust and by avoiding exposure to tuberculosis.

PROTAMINE INSULIN

How the solubility of insulin had been decreased, and its lasting powers thus prolonged, was told by Dr. Charles Best, Toronto, speaking on "Methods of administration of hormones with special reference to protamine insulin."

Protamine, produced from the sperm of salmon, when linked with insulin, formed a compound which was less soluble in the human system than insulin alone. For this reason each dose was effective for a longer period. The addition of metals increased this duration.

Dr. Best believed it might be possible to produce a synthetic product to replace protamine. In its present form protamine insulin could not be administered through the mouth because of the action of saliva on the compound.

DUCTLESS GLANDS

"The significance of recent investigations on ductless glands" was the subject of a paper read by Dr. J. B. Collip.

Scientists, he said, were seeking to prove that the pituitary gland exercised influence on the thyroid, suprarenal and mammary glands.

The indications were that outlying ductless glands were affected by hormones from the pituitary, and were capable of reacting in their turn. It had been shown that the pattern of discharge from the pituitary gland could be modified both in quantity and quality.

Describing how a derangement in one gland could affect another gland, Dr. Collip elaborated on the importance of the control of the nervous system by hormones. He told how a number of cases of atropic rhinitis had been traced to pituitary derangement.

Public Health Tasks Debated

Dr. J. G. Fitzgerald Says Health Men Often Work in Unhealthful Quarters

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 26.—"It is a common task in which we all should join in seeking information for the promotion and preservation of public health," Dr. J. G. Fitzgerald, dean of the faculty of medcine and director of the school of hygiene and Connaught Laboratories of the University of Toronto, said yesterday in an address at a meeting of the public health convention here.

Dr. Fitzgerald deplored the fact that those working for public health were not always working in healthful quarters.

"There are many men working for the benefit of public health in quarters where they themselves could not possibly be healthy," he said.

Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, commissioner of health of Connecticut, addressed yesterday's meeting on occupational diseases and urged that greater efforts be made to improve working quarters.

INFLUENZA FIGHT

While possibility of discovering a satisfactry way to control influenza is more encouraging than twenty years ago, no improved methods of control are at present available, Dr. John P. Sippy, district health officer of San Joaquin local health district, Stockton, California, said at yesterday's session.

Dr. Sippy suggested influenza might be caused by transmission of the disease from swine suffering from a similar malady.

Intestinal influenza, contrary to common belief, might quite possibly be caused by a filterable virus which, in view of much recent research, might shortly be identified and classified, he said.

"Evidence shows that influenza is probably epidemic in every community and is world-wide," Dr. Sippy said. "Recognition of this, associated with careful epidemiological observations, can enable us to anticipate outbreaks and to initiate administrative measures which may minimize their effects and to lower their fatality.

NEW BRUNSWICK STATEMENT

Saint John, N.B., June 26 (Canadian Press).—Bacillary dysentery is no more common in New Brunswick than in most other parts of North America, medical officials here said today, commenting on a statement made yesterday in Vancouver by Dr. A. V. Hardy, Washington, D.C.

Dr. Hardy, consultant of the United States Health Service, told the public health convention meeting in Vancouver the disease was common in Quebec, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island.

Health officials here said Dr. Hardy must have been referring to an epidemic in Gaspe, Que., last year, where the disease was spread by a coastal steamer which also called at northern New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island ports. There were no "real outbreaks" in either maritime province, however, they said.

BOOK SERVICE IN HOSPITALS

Minnesota Librarian Suggests Plan For Province

No well equipped hospital could afford to be without a library, because of the curative effects of the right kind of reading, it was claimed by Miss Perrie Jones, supervisor of institutional libraries for Minnesota, at a round table discussion of hospital auxiliary representatives at the Beach Hotel yesterday.

Miss Jones, traveling through Canada after attending the annual Pacific Northwest Library Association conference at Lake Crescent, Washington, made many suggestions as to first steps leading to installation of hospital libraries in British Columbia, particularly Victoria.

Dr. H. M Cassidy recommended that a motion be placed before the annual meeting of the British Columbia Hospitals' Association by someone who had experience in institutional library work.

Rapid development of institutional library work, both in the United States and in Great Britain, was told by the visitor, who also quoted figures to show that the work was being promoted in eastern Canadian hospitals.

Out of eighteen state-administered institutions in her own jurisdiction, Miss Jones said, one was a penitentiary, one a reformatory, one a women's prison, three hospitals for mental cases, one an asylum, three children's training schools and the others various types of hospitals. She cited these to suggest the variety of institutions into which libraries could be introduced.

Schemes of centralization and financing library work were discussed.

Following the conference, Miss Clay of the Victoria Public Library entertained at tea.

Vancouver, June 26.—Westminster Royals reached the semi-finals in the Dominion Cup soccer series when they eked out a lucky 2 to 1 victory over St. Saviours on a lighted field here yesterday evening.

Although outplayed all the way, Royals came from behind to tie the score and go on to victory.

Jellett scored the first goal for St. Saviours after thirty minutes play. In the second half, Royals were awarded a penalty and captain Dave Turner sank the ball for the tying point.

The winning goal was scored by Coulter on a neat pass from Turner. St. Saviours rallied gamely, but failed to even the game.

Jim Adams and Bill Cox Share Lead In British Open Golf

THE SPORTS MIRROR

By PETE SALLAWAY

NOT A FEW tennis critics attribute Wilmer Allison's failure in the Davis Cup matches against the Australians to his playing too much golf. Similarly, Fred Perry's erratic play in the French hard court championships and his defeat by Baron Gottfried von Cramm is said to be due to too much time on the links. Allison and Mary K. Browne, well-known American woman player, believe that golf keeps a tennis player on edge.

* * *

"The one acts as an antitoxin against the disease of the other," says Miss Browne, former United States women's champion and Wightman Cup player, who also is a star of the fairways. "You can easily become over-tennised or over-golfed. If you play both games, you will find yourself remaining keen for each."

* * *

Perry gives variety as the reason for his conversion to golf.

"In tennis you play the same strokes over and over again, whether you're performing in England, America, Australia, or Somaliland," points out the world amateur champion. "In golf, no two strokes are exactly alike.

Maurice McLoughlin and Norman Brookes mixed tennis and golf. So do Sidney B. Wood Jr., Helen Hull Jacobs, Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, Kay Stammers, and a long list of lesser lights who believe that golf improves tennis, and vice versa.

A similar argument, involving baseball and golf, raged for years and in this regard it was significant that the Royal and Ancient never hurt George Herman Ruth.

Danny MacFadyen attributes his pitching comeback with the Boston Bees to Catcher Al Lopez.

MacFadyen's pitching was credited with elevating the Boston Red Sox from last to sixth place for the only time in an eight-year stretch five years ago, yet Danny was unable to get going when sold to the high-rolling New York Yankees. The only bespectacled pitcher in the National League wasn't much with the Cincinnati Reds last year, either.

* * *

MacFadyen charges his failure in New York to the fact that the Yankees were up in the race and that he always was more or less of a doubtful starter.

"When the Yankees did shove me in there, I evidently bore down too hard," explains the slim righthander. "But regardless of why I slumped in those years, I am convinced that my comeback this season is due largely to Lopez.

"I recovered my confidence because of my absolute faith in Lopez. Having a fellow who really can think behind the plate is a tremendous help to a pitcher. When a catcher just puts down a couple of fingers, calling for this or that pitch without rhyme or reason, it is a mental handicap to a pitcher that few fans or even players appreciate.

A footballer with nearly four months' growth of beard will be seen in the Olympic Games football tournament. In return for his traveling and other expenses, Lorenz Spiller, a member of the Jugoslav team, has agreed not to shave before the games. Spiller, a native of Novi Sad, has undertaken this curious task as the result of a wager with a friend. Now other friends of Spiller's are having wagers among themselves as to the length of the beard by the time the Olympic Games are over.

Special arrangements are being made in Berlin to deal with the 250,000 visitors expected during the period of the games. Billets will be provided in schools and private houses, accommodation being given in some cases for twenty-five cents a night. Already most of the bigger hotels in Berlin are sold out, but there is plenty of accommodation at the smaller establishments. Practically all the seats available at the games for Germans have been sold, but special seats are provided for visitors from other countries. Payment for them cannot be made in German currency.

VICTORIA WEST WINS SOFTBALL

In a thrilling last-inning rally the Victoria West girls' softball team defeated Margaret Jenkins by a score of 9 to 8, to win the city championship.

For three years in succession these same two teams have opposed each other and in each case the championship has been decided by the odd run. Until this year Margaret Jenkins had had possession of the cup which now goes to Victoria West.

Austin, Allison, Von Cramm and Budge Winners

Allison, U.S. Champion, Extended to Four Sets By Jones, Britain

U.S. WOMEN DROP DOUBLES

Wimbledon, June 26.—Rain delayed play in the all-England tennis championships today but officials decided play would go on.

First important result was the victory of H. W. "Bunny" Austin of the British Davis Cup team over Martin Legeay, France, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2. The win assured Austin a place in the last eight of the men's singles.

Austin dropped four love games in the first set but turned in an impressive victory by yielding but three games in the next two sets.

Betty Nuthall, English veteran, and her partner, Mrs. Allister, South Africa, scored a major British triumph for the home forces by defeating the United States Wightman Cup combination, Carolin Babcock of Los Angeles and Mrs. John Van Ryn of Philadelphia 6-4, 3-6, 6-3 in the first round of the women's doubles.

Kay Stammers of Britain defeated Meule Meester, Belgium, 6-4, 6-0 in a third round singles match. Nellie Adamson, Belgium, followed with a 6-4, 4-6, 9-7 victory over Mme. Henrotin, France.

Baron Gottfried von Cramm of Germany and Wilmer Allison of the United States joined Austin in the quarter-finals by fourth-round victories.

The German Davis Cup ace, finalist here a year ago with Fred Perry, defeated Enrique Maier, Spain, 10-8, 6-2, 2-6, 6-2, while Allison defeated C. M. Jones, Great Britain, 10-8, 6-4, 1-6, 7-5.

Donald Budge, Oakland, Calif., also gained a quarter-final bracket, eliminating Josef Caska of Czechoslovakia 6-3, 6-0, 6-4.

Hollywood, Calif., June 26.—C. Aubrey Smith, patriarch actor and cricketer, will captain the Hollywood cricket team invading Canada on Sunday for a series of matches with Vancouver and Victoria teams.

The players include Nigel Bruce, Victor McLaglen, Frank Lawton, Claude King, David Niven, Reginald Owen, H. B. Warner, Allen Mowbray, Pat Somerset and Fairbairn Smith.

HEAVYWEIGHTS TO SHOW HERE

Six Wrestlers to Meet in Battle Royal Tomorrow at Tillicum Gym

Six of the most rugged bone-benders in the game will climb through the ropes tomorrow evening at the Tillicum gym to fight in the battle royal, which will open Promoter Fred Richardson's mat show at 8.45 o'clock.

Chief Chiwaki, dusky Indianapolis grappler; "King Kong" Sox, self-styled "tough man" from Lodi, California; "Wee Willie" Davis, Norfolk; Gerry Monahan, Toronto; Pat Maloney, Boston, and Pat Fraley, San Francisco, are the wrestlers who will appear in the wild scramble.

The bouts will be decided as the wrestlers are eliminated. Officials in charge have announced that the women's free list has been suspended

Auto Club Donates Cup For Auto Races

A handsome silver cup has been donated by the officers of the Victoria Automobile Club to the B.C. Automotive Sports Association for members' course record at the Langford speedway, T. J. Goodlake, secretary of the automobile club, announced today.

The silverware will be competed for for the first time on Dominion Day. It is a challenge cup and will be competed for annually by members of the Automotive Sports Association

PEDEN BOYS ARE BEATEN

Doug, Ernie and Rusty Fail to Place as Canadian Bike Trials Open

Toronto, June 26. — George Crompton of the Maple Leaf Club, Toronto, broke the Canadian record in winning the 1,000-metre time race at the Olympic bicycle trials here yesterday evening. Crompton's time of 1.16 1-5 smashed the old mark of 1.18 1-5 held by his teammate Bob McLeod, ten-mile British Empire Games champion. McLeod placed second, two-fifths of a second behind the winner. Each competitor raced alone against time.

The smashing win over the Canadian National Exhibition half-mile dirt track made Crompton one of the favorites for the Canuck team to journey to Germany next month.

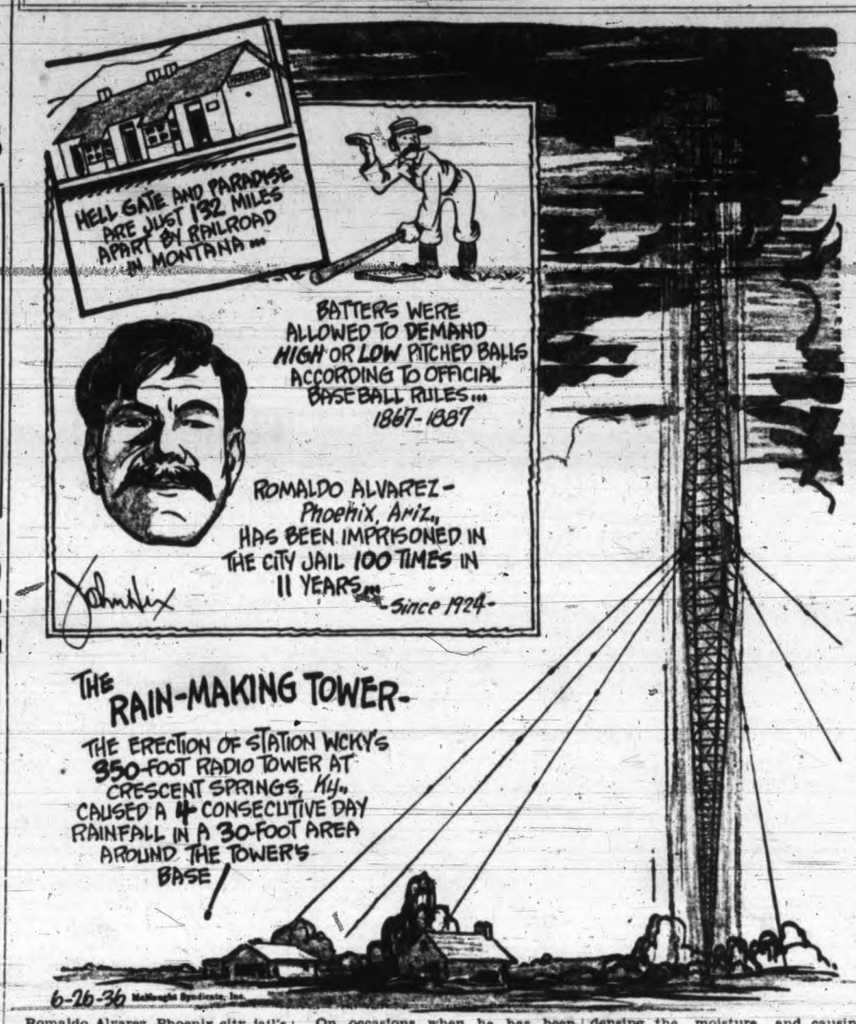
The trials, held in conjunction with the Dominion championships, continue today and tomorrow. A committee of the Canadian Wheelmen's Association will meet Sunday to decide Canada's representatives at the Olympics with a possibility five riders will be picked.

Leo Machori, Vancouver, advanced to the final heats of the 1,000-metre scratch event but placed third in one of the final heats behind Turner and youthful Doug Peace, all-round Canadian champion from Toronto.

Ernie and Doug Peden, brothers of the famous six-day rider, Torchy, representing the Maple Leaf Club, Victoria, showed up well in the preliminary heats, but were outguessed and outsped as the field narrowed. Cousin Rusty Peden, riding under Toronto Maple Leaf colors, also failed to place.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS

—By John Hix



Romaldo Alvarez, Phoenix city jail's No. 36293, is regarded as the institution's steadiest customer.

First arrested December 12, 1924, Alvarez has spent most of his time since that date working on the city chain gang, escaping it and being returned to it.

According to John J. McGrath, Phoenix Chief of Detectives, Alvarez has become a model prisoner during the past year. Since discovering that the only time he made his numerous escapes was when he thought the guards were displeased with him, they have made a point of treating him with special kindness.

On occasions when he has been legally released after serving his time, he promptly goes on a liquor spree and is arrested again in short order. Alvarez is stone deaf.

RADIO RAIN

Engineers who built radio station WCKY's transmitter at Crescent Springs, Kentucky, were amazed when upon finishing the erection of the steel radio tower, rain started falling in a thirty-foot area around its base, continuing to shower down on four consecutive days. Upon investigation, they found that the top of the 350-foot tower which was in the midst of rain clouds was condensing the moisture and causing the precipitation.

HIGH OR LOW

The history of baseball rulings has gone through some revolutionary changes but it is fortunate for pitchers' averages today that the rule passed in 1867 by the official rules committee was abolished in 1887.

Under the ruling, pitchers actually had to throw the ball over the plate at the height specified by the batter. If they failed to do so, a ball was called against them.

Young Vancouver Shotmaker Reaches Semi-finals of Pacific Northwest Golf With Givan, Ellsworth and Watson; Americans Dominate Women's Tourney

Vancouver, June 26.—A trio of Seattle shotmakers and a lone British Columbian teed off today over the 6,400 yard Point Grey course in search of finalists' berths in the Pacific Northwest Golf Association's thirty-eighth annual tournament.

Sherman Ellsworthy and Harry Givan, both from Seattle, opened the semi-finals with Givan favored for one fin list bracket.

Fifteen minutes later Forrest Watson, third Sound City golfer surviving yesterday's two eighteen-hole rounds, matched strokes with Jimmy Robertson, British Columbia's hope for the title left open by the first round defeat of Scotty Campbell, Seattle.

Givan's stock soared after yesterday's victories. After downing George Thomas, Vancouver, 1 up, in the morning eighteen holes, the husky Seattle shotmaker proceeded to hand out a neat lacing to Stan Leonard, Vancouver ace, whom he defeated 7 and 5 in the afternoon in thirteen holes of superlative clubbing, three strokes under par.

CLOSE MATCHES

Ellsworthy eliminated Ernie Walls, Vancouver, 1 up in yesterday's first round, then ousted Bill Burns, Portland, 3 and 2 in the afternoon.

Watson, seeking the title he won ten years ago, scored a twenty-second hole victory over Bud Campbell, Seattle, and followed up with a 3 and 2 win over another fellow-townsman, Ralph Whaley.

Fourth in the bracket, young Jimmy Robertson, Vancouver divoter, put out Alan Taylor, Victoria, 3 and 3, then finished up with a 2 up victory over Dan Stack, Nelson.

Vancouver, June 26.—Four women, three crack Americans and a Vancouver girl, all with a hope in their hearts, stroked their steady way over Point Grey's flat, tree-lined course today in the semi-finals of the women's Pacific Northwest golf championship.

Among them were two shotmakers of no mean fame, Marian McDougall and Nancy Hurst, both of Portland, and it was generally conceded it would be these two who would meet in the finals tomorrow.

The other two, Miss Florence Sellers, Portland, and Miss Marcia Moss, Vancouver, although not so well known, still remained a threat in the path of the expected finalists.

Miss Moss, the lone Cahadian left in championship play, was matched with Miss McDougall, who held the Pacific Northwest crown in 1934 and who also holds the Oregon State championship.

Miss McDougall advanced yesterday by eliminating Mrs. W. M. Silcock, Vancouver, 4 and 2.

Although the American star was expected to take the measure of the tall, dark Marcia today, the latter showed plenty of confidence.

Marcia advanced yesterday by breaking up the Sellers sister combination of Portland, eliminating Dorothy, the younger, 3 and 2.

SURPRISE WIN

The other sister created something of a surprise by eliminating young Barbara Winn, Seattle, 7 and 6. The Seattle girl had been considered a good match for the slight Portland shotmaker, but was unable to match strokes with her as Florence one-putted no less than six greens.

She was matched with the long-driving Miss Hurst, the girl who sinks thirty-foot putts and thinks nothing of it.

Miss Marjorie Todd, the smiling Victoria girl, and only islander left in the tournament, advanced to the semi-final consolation round yesterday by defeating Mrs. A. Betts, Spokane, 4 and 2.

Victoria Woman Wins Two Revolver Events

Mrs. Steve Dunnell Takes British Columbia Women's Championship and Event For Vancouver Island Women; Seattle Police Dominate Team Matches

With victories in the British Columbia women's championship and the Vancouver Island women's events, Mrs. Steve Dunnell led sharpshooters at the opening day of the city police annual revolver meet at Heals Range yesterday.

Mrs. Dunnell also took third place in the event open for women. To win the Vancouver Island event, Mrs. Dunnell shot an 86 out of a possible 100, firing deliberate fire at twenty-five yards. In the championship match she turned in a 141, firing deliberate fire at fifty yards and timed fire at twenty-five yards.

Mrs. F. Trones, crack woman shot from Seattle, took the open event for women, shooting deliberate, timed and rapid fire, with a 234 out of a possible 300.

Teams from Seattle dominated the team matches, winning first and second places in the running man competition and first place in the deliberate, time and rapid fire event for five-man teams.

CLOSE MATCH

The Victoria police finished with a handsome margin over Oak Bay to take the match from Vancouver Island police teams.

In the match for British Columbia police teams shooting deliberate, timed and rapid fire, the provincial police took top honors from Victoria city by two points. The former had 1,166 and the latter 1,164. Credit for the victory went to Constable J. A. Young, who turned in the outstanding score of 97 out of 100 in the rapid fire. It was the first time in many years such a card was turned in for rapid firing on the local range.

Detective Henry F. Jarvis turned in a brilliant 94 in taking the novice event for Victoria police. Constable Ed Sturrock was second with 91 and Chief Heatley third with 79.

The British Columbia press championship was won by J. A. Smith of The New Westminster Columbian, with Ted Fox and Archie Wills of The Times in second and third places. Major S. R. Bowden of The Colonist, last year's winner, was fourth.

JACK SHARKEY TAKES FIGHT

Rallies After Being Knocked Down to Win Decision Over Phil Brubaker

Boston, June 26—Jack Sharkey, the man of 1,000 fistic moods, projected himself back into the heavyweight picture today as the result of a close but convincing ten-round victory over young Phil Brubaker, California's latest contribution to the boxing wars.

Sharkey got up off the floor at Fenway Park yesterday evening, gave the twenty-two-year-old Brubaker an artistic boxing lesson, and promptly served notice that he is serious about making a comeback, three years after dropping the world championship to ponderous Primo Carnera.

Sharkey probably will collide with Max Baer, now likewise on the comeback trail, in New York this summer.

James J. Johnston, matchmaker for Madison Square Garden, said he hoped to arrange a Sharkey - Baer bout.

Knocked down, cut and battered by Brubaker's first round rush, Sharkey rallied to outbox, outpunch and outpoint the California clouter. The thirty - three - year - old ex-champion waged one of his best fights to score an uphill victory.

Carrying 199 pounds, much of it around the mid-section, Sharkey nevertheless showed surprising agility and actually got better as the fight progressed.

SOFTBALL WINS ARE DECISIVE

Silent Glows Defeat Jokers 16 to 1 and Brunsdons Blank Vacs 8 to 0

One-sided victories for Silent Glows and Brunsdon's Boys marked yesterday evening's A Section softball fixtures. Hammering out plenty of safeties from the offerings of Archie McBride, Jokers' twirler, Silent Glows were victorious over the Jokers, 16 to 1, at the Athletic Park, while Brunsdon's, playing bang-up ball, beat the Victoria Athletic Club nine, 8 to 0, at Bullen Park.

McBride hurled fine ball for five innings, at which time the score stood 2 to 1 for the burnermen. He went to pieces from then on, however, and Silent Glow batters fattened their averages. McBride was replaced by Kelly Comerford in the eighth, who pitched no-hit ball for the rest of the match.

The batteries were: Jokers, McBride, Comerford and McBride; Silent Glows, Jones and Caddell.

Playing in smart form, Brunsdon's downed the Vacs 8 to 0 at Bullen Park. Errorless ball was played by the victors, while the Vacs were weak in the outfield and a number of errors were recorded.

The batteries were: Brunsdon's, Moir and Dunnett; V.A.C., Glendenning and Kennedy.

Two British Pros Have 36-hole Scores of 144; Cotton One Stroke More

Gene Sarazen Is Four Strokes Back

Hoylake, England, June 26.—Jim Adams, who last week won the Scottish open championship, and Bill Cox, yesterday's leader, were tied today at 144 for the lead at the halfway mark of the British open golf championship.

Adams, a twenty-five-year-old Scotsman, recovered brilliantly after a wobbly first three holes to card a 73 over the Royal Liverpool course. He took 39 going out but shattered par by four strokes on the return journey with a 34. His 71 yesterday had left him only one stroke behind Cox.

Cox, pro at Wimbledon, played a steady par 74, marred only by a six on the twelfth hole. He was out in 36 and back in 38.

Henry Cotton, the outstanding favorite, and several other leading contenders were one stroke back. Gene Sarazen, the chief threat in the small contingent of United States players, took a 75 and had a thirty-six-hole total of 148, four strokes behind.

OTHER LEADERS

Along with Cotton at 145 were Alf Padgham, Dick Burton, Francis Francis and Marcel Dallemagne, French native open champion.

The twenty-nine-year-old Cotton, 1934 winner, started off with a brilliant out-going 34, bit he failed to better par coming home and carded a 72.

Burton shot a 71; Padgham, Francis and Dallemagne had 72s, along with Cotton.

SOCCER TEAMS HOLD BANQUET

Wednesday League Holds Annual Wind-up; Teams Receive Trophies

One hundred and twenty-five soccer players, referees, officials and invited guests were present yesterday evening at the annual banquet and presentation of trophies of the Victoria and District Wednesday Football League, held in Spencers diningroom, Ralph Alcock, president, was in the chair.

Tommy Belford, centre forward for the James Bay Wanderers, was presented with the Herbert Hewison Cup awarded the player who acts in the most sportsmanlike manner on and off the field. Mr. Hewison, in making the presentation, said he had donated this cup to promote better sportsmanship in the ranks of the Wednesday League.

Spencer's soccer eleven, who won three of four trophies during the last season's play, received the McKay Shield, the Rennie and Taylor Cup and Pendray Cup, symbolic of the league championship. Each player received miniature trophies, Hudson's Bay were presented with the Hayward Cup and miniature trophies, Scotty McKay, donor of the McKay Shield, made that presentation; Reg Hayward, son of the donor, made the presentation. Alderman Jams Adam presented the Rennie and Taylor Cup and K. McIntyre presented the Pendray Cup.

Alderman Adam spoke highly of the good sportsmanship evident in last season's play, and he cited that only one player had been sent off the field. This, he said, was practically a record. Alderman Adam praised the donors of the various trophies for their interest in soccer.

President Alcock paid tribute to piano, the improved brand of soccer played last season by the teams and named a number of the outstanding players. He urged better co-operation from football leagues in the city. Mr. Alcock thought that the Victoria United eleven should be chosen from any and all leagues in the city. This would no doubt put added strength to the eleven, and they would go a lot farther in their bid for a Canadian championship.

The following artists performed: Seaman Tate, violin; Petty Officer Sweetman, comic song; Mr. Hoskin, recitation; Petty Officer Hope, tap dance; Mr. Freer, impersonations, and Seaman Fest, swinging cutlasses. Mr. Parnell accompanied the artists. Community singing was led by Alderman Adam with Jack Baxter at the piano.

Mungo Loses Game Despite New Mark

Luckless Hurler of Brooklyn Strikes Out Seven in Row and Eleven in Game Only to Be Beaten 5 to 4 By Cincinnati; New York Giants Climb to Third

Anything can happen in this game of baseball, and particulrly where the bewildering Brooklyn men of Casey Stengel are concerned.

If you don't believe it, picture set-up: A pitcher equalling a major league strikeout record by fanning seven in a row, whiffing a total of eleven men in the course of the same battle, allowing only seven hits—and then losing the ball game.

That happened to the luckless Van Lingle Mungo yesterday as he dropped a 5 to 4 decision to the Cincinnati Reds in the opener of a twin ball, all because the Dodgers could not hit behind him. The Reds also annexed the nightcap, 5 to 1, sinking the Brooklyn deeper into the cellar.

Other dizzy doings in the National League race yesterday. The lowly Phillies shelled Dizzy Dean off the mound in four innings, winning the opener of their twin bill, 13 to 4, only to have the St. Louis Cardinals take the nightcap by the same score; the Chicago Cubs took the first game of their double-header with the Boston Bees 1 to 0, although allowed only three hits and pulled up a bare half game from the league leading Cards by capturing the nightcap as well 8 to 4, and the New York Giants, who were supposed to be all washed up just a week ago, climbed into third place over the Pittsburgh Pirates with a 5 to 4 triumph on the strength of Gus Mancuso's three-run homer in the ninth.

The New York Yankees nosed out the Chicago White Sox 7 to 6. The Washington Senators clubbed the St. Louis Browns 12 to 5, as expected. The second place Boston Red Sox, paced by Jimmy Foxx's twentieth and twenty-first homers, slugged the Cleveland Indians 9 to 4, and the Detroit Tigers bombarded the Philadelphia Athletic 13 to 1.

COAST LEAGUE

Those Los Angeles Seraphs, in seventh place but playing bang-up ball, again thwarted Portland's attempt to take the Coast League leadership, as first division teams interchanged positions once more.

Oakland was back at the top today, but only because Los Angeles won a twelve-inning 6 to 5 contest from Portland. Had the Beavers triumphed, they would have been leading the league by a .002 margin. By losing they dropped from second to fourth place.

The Acorns supplanted San Francisco's Missions in first by pounding out an 8 to 6 victory over the Reds, and Seattle went into a second-place tie with Willie Kamm's team by scratching out a 2 to 1 win over the San Francisco Seals.

Sacramento made it two in a row over San Diego when Don Ross, their new fuzzy-cheeked moundsman, pitched the cellar denizens to a 6 to 1 triumph.

Fossil Found In Royal Oak

Concretion Discovered by Mrs. O. D. Kinnaird on Her Farm

The story of a little shellfish who left his mark in the world, though he died like 1,000,000 others a billion years ago, was unfolded today when Mrs. O. D. Kinnaird discovered what she beleieved to be three fossils on her farm at Royal Oak.

Two of the stones looked as though they were petrified wood, while the third was round and cylindrical with a black outside and a white centre, very much like a large piece of licorce candy.

Dr. J. F. Walker, Provincial Mineralogist, who examined the stones for The Victoria Daily Times, said there was a suggestion of petrified wood in two of them, but they were too far gone to identify properly. The stones were metamorphosed and of no particular type. The striations which suggeested the grain of wood might have been due to shearing or weathering.

The candy-like stone Dr. Walker spent some time looking at through a magnifying glass. He said it was a concretion and there were traces in the white centre of the remains of a little shellfish.

A concretion, the mineralogist explained, was caused by some form of organic living matter. A little shellfish dying on the sea-bed might be covered with sand. Then when it decayed, the gases given off set up a chemical reaction on the sand which formed a hard, solid lump. Often the remains of the little shellfish could be found in the lump.

It is surprising that fossils were discovered at Royal Oak, as that part of Saanich is a quartz-diorite area, a mass of igneous rock in which fossils are never found. The stones, if they are fossils, must have been carried down by glaciers.

There was only one small part of Saanich where fosils might be found, Dr. Walker said, and that was right at the tip of the peninsula, around Shoal Harbor and Coal Island. The fossils would be of shellfish.

SAANICH SCOUT FETE

The Rowles Boys' Band will play at a garden party at the residence of Mrs. Mead-Robins, Royal Oak, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The fete, which is in the interest of the Royal Oak Boy Scout troop, will be opened by Reeve Crouch at 3.30 o'clock.

Judgment was reserved by the Appeal Court today in the case of the Attorney-General of British Columbia vs. the Royal Bank of Canada, following reargument this morning. The case involves a sum of money left in the bank by a company which was struck from the register. The Attorney-General is seeking the funds for the Crown.

Vocal Concert Delights Many

Victoria School of Expression Give Programme of Elocution

The Victoria School of Expression gave a delightful concert in which the art of speech was emphasized to an appreciative audience of over 300 in the Memorial Hall yesterday evening.

The programme showed the connection between speech and sound in its satisfying variation of song and recitation. Throughout there was a simplicity of selection and a sincerity of expression.

Mrs. W. Ord, principal, thrilled the audience with her rendition of "The Stone," by Wilfrid Gibson, a lyric recitation. She also gave some Shakespearean selections and commented on the programme from time to time.

Among the pupils Miss L. Pithketh-ley was outstanding in the sleep-walking scene from "Macbeth," while an intermediate group gave some delightful "fireside" songs without any accompaniment whatsoever. Ronald McDonald drew applause with his recitation of the "Bald-headed Man." W. McPhail spoke excellently on the "Educational Value of Speech Arts."

Voluntary Finance Group Is Proposed

National Committee Acting in Advisory Capacity Would Serve Useful Purpose, Says Premier Pattullo; Scheme Announced By Hon. Charles Dunning

The British Columbia Government today was studying a new proposal from Ottawa regarding collaboration between the provinces and the Dominion in financial affairs.

Hon. Charles A. Dunning, federal finance minister, yesterday sent to all provincial governments a plan for a national committee on finances, to be established "on a purely voluntary basis" and composed of Dominion and provincial representatives.

While the text of this had not been received here, Premier Pattullo, commenting on the news reports, said:

"Any committee of all the provinces and the Dominion meeting together to discuss matters of public finance in an advisory capacity will serve a useful purpose."

The Premier added, however, British Columbia did not propose to sit in like "beggars or mendicants" on a committee composed of only part of the provinces and the Dominion.

Under the original loan council plan the national finance minister and the provincial treasurer or finance minister would have composed the council with the governor of the Bank of Canada as advisor.

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 26.—The government, balked in its attempt to establish by constitutional change a loan council system of provincial borrowing, today was prepared to attempt promotion by voluntary means of closer Dominion-provincial collaboration in financial affairs.

In the midst of preparations for his departure for Europe, Hon. C. A. Dunning announced yesterday evening the administration's intention of promoting a national committee on financial questions to be established "on a purely voluntary basis" and composed of Dominion and provincial representatives.

The minister suggested a long list of questions which might be discussed by such a committee and remarked it was hoped to accomplish through it part of the programme halted when the Senate refused to sanction a joint parliamentary petition to Westminster asking for a specific amendment to the British North America Act legalizing loan councils and an advisory national finance council.

The loan council would have had supervisory powers over Dominion and provincial borrowings and provinces wishing to participate would have been required to undertake to obtain the council's approval before issuing loans.

Mr. Dunning said communications had been sent to the provincial governments informing them of the administration's intention and asking them for suggestions regarding constitution of the new committee.

MATTERS OF CONSIDERATION

Among the questions that might be appropriate for consideration by such a body would be the following:

Methods of securing greater efficiency and economy in tax collection and administration;

Methods of reducing evils of multiple taxation including possibilities of co-operation in tax administration;

Merits and incidence of particular types of taxes and methods of achieving more equitable, better-balanced and more elastic tax systems;

Financial relations between the Dominion and the provinces;

Problems involved in the raising of public funds by borrowing, including the form and timing of public issues, the establishment and management of sinking funds, and the conditions in any investment market in which the Dominion or any province may have occasion to borrow;

Methods of securing greater co-operation and co-ordination in the financial policies of the Dominion and of the provinces;

Methods of public accounting and representing information concerning the public debt, revenues and expenditures, etc., with a view to securing greater clarity and uniformity;

And methods of collecting and publishing statistical information.

Mr. Dunning expressed the hope that such a body organized on a voluntary and advisory basis only, could, over a period of years, make a substantial contribution to the improvement of conditions in the field of public finance in Canada.

CITY EXPECTS TO GET LOAN

"It looks as if we are going to get the $100,000," Mayor David Leeming said today following press announcement that Hon. John Hart, provincial minister of finance, was favorably disposed towards making the loan to the city.

The sum is an amount sought by Victoria to balance its 1936 budget and care for most of the city's share of relief costs this year.

The press statement quoted Mr. Hart at saying the province regarded favorably the city's application for the money, but that necessary arrangements would have to be made with Ottawa.

Application for the money was made recently by D. A. Macdonald, city comptroller-treasurer.

Lister Oration Ends Meetings

Triennial Speech Delivered By Dr. E. W. Archibald at C.M.A. Convention

The character of Joseph Lister, originator of antisepsis in surgery and one of medicine's greatest benefactors to mankind, was reviewed rather from the standpoint of his private life than from that of his scientific achievements this morning by Dr. E. W. Archibald, professor of surgery at McGill University, who delivered the fifth triennial Listerian oration at the closing session of the Canadian Medical Association's sixty-seventh annual convention.

The oration was founded in 1924 by Dr. John Stewart as a permanent memorial to Lister.

Keeping green the memory of a great man was a pious task, said Dr. Archibald; it was a religious act and a personal worship.

"Every practitioner of the healing art has reason in his everyday work to praise the name of Lister," he said.

Dr. Archibald spoke of Lister as a man, as a husband, a social being, a surgeon, an experimenter, and one whose life passion was to alleviate the sufferings of all human beings from the highest to the lowest.

WAS TRUE GENIUS

A shy, reticent man, he was essentially a student, but he was not content with routine knowledge. He had the curiosity of the discoverer. That allied with imagination and perseverance, gave him genius. He was not brilliant, but nevertheless his genius was very real, said Dr. Archibald.

Lister was a gentle man with a great love for humanity. It was hard to reconcile at times his love of the bloody type of surgery of the days of his youth with that gentleness. His love of science triumphed over his gentleness, and he found adventure as well as a chance for skill in operating.

If Lister had not been a genius, said Dr. Archibald, he might have thought of Pasteur's discovery of the microbian origin of fermentation as just another item of passing chemical interest. As it was he seized upon it as the explanation of the problem of sepsis of wounds which had long filled his mind.

As a surgeon he was slow by the standards of his day, although anethesia had by then removed the need for haste. But his patients loved him. His work was thorough and accurate, and he gave as much attention to the dressing of wounds after operations as to the operations themselves.

Lister was a man of means. He never knew poverty. This permitted him to acquire all the instruments and materials he needed, and also to travel.

He was a man of culture. His knowledge of languages probably did much towards the rapid adoption of antisepsis in Europe. He was also a remarkable teacher, with a special appeal to the imagination of his students.

LOVED BY FEW

Lister was a man loved only by a few intimates, said Dr. Archibald. He was admired, revered and even worshipped, by others, but he returned no love to them.

Dr. Archibald's address concluded a morning of general sessions during the course of which three authoritative papers on various subjects were heard.

GRINNELL CO. LOSES APPEAL

After withdrawing a previous judgment, the Court of Appeal here today dismissed the appeal of the Grinnell Company of Canada Limited, covering the case of Warren vs. Grinnell, arising out of an automobile accident on the highway between Vancouver and Seattle. The appeal was dismissed on an equal division, Mr. Justice McPhillips and Mr. Justice McQuarrie moving for dismissal, while Mr. Justice M. A. Macdonald and Mr. Justice Martin moved to uphold it.

At a session in Vancouver on April 14, the appeal was allowed and a new trial ordered with Mr. Justice McQuarrie dissenting.

The court was unanimous in dismissing the appeal in the case of Pelle vs. Bursea, arising out of an automobile accident in Vancouver.

The appeal in the case of Smith vs. Kennedy and Thomas, defendants in an automobile accident case, was dismissed on an equal division.

Market Appeal Is Considered

B.C. Debates Taking Act to Privy Council If Ottawa Does Not

The B.C. government today was considering what steps it should take regarding the Dominion Natural Products Marketing Act, ruled ultra vires by the Supreme Court of Canada.

It was intimated from Ottawa the federal government did not intend to take the measure to the Privy council.

While British Columbia has already proclaimed a marketing law of its own in order to save existing schemes, it would prefer to have a federal law in operation to avoid legal difficulties in the enforcement of the provincial law. Twice previously marketing legislation initiated by the province had been ruled out.

Whether this province will carry the marketing fight to the Privy Council or try to carry on permanently with its own act was undecided today. B.C. will initiate appeals on other statutes ruled on by the Supreme Court if they are not started by the Dominion. The question arose, however, as to the wisdom of appealing the marketing law in view of the federal government's proposal to remove compulsory features of it in any event.

VISITOR GETS BUTTON FISH

L. E. Skinner of Toronto Hooks Twenty-pound Salmon in Saanich Inlet

L. E. Skinner, well-known Toronto manufacturer, who has been visiting the city for last two weeks, was feeling quite proud today. While fishing with George Straith and George Simpson in Saanich Inlet yesterday he had a great thirty-five-minute battle with a twenty-seven-pound salmon.

The party was fishing near the Big Boulder, McKenzie Bay, when Mr. Skinner got his strike. He had 300 feet of line out, with a quarter to a half-pound of lead and was using a "hook-em" spoon.

Before making the trip Mr. Skinner enlisted on the membership role of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association and the catching of a twenty-seven pounder gives him a bronze button.

MIKE ROMANO DIES IN RING

Well-known Heavyweight Wrestler Expires During Bout at Washington

New York, June 26.—Death has struck twice in the ranks of big time wrestling in less than a week.

Mike Romano, an Italian veteran of the mat wars, expired yesterday evening in a Washington ring as he grappled with Jack Donovan.

Last Friday night, Brawny Jim Browning, Missourian, who once held the world title, died in hospital of embolism while awiting an abnominal operation.

Gus Sonnenberg, another ex-champion, is on the side-lines temporarily. Count Zarynoff threw him out of the ring at Boston Wednesday and he fractured his left hip.

Romano, who was about forty years old and well known to Canadian wrestling fans, apparently died on his feet, during the heat of his bout. Donovan said he was about to apply a hold, while standing, when suddenly he felt "Murderous Mike" go limp in his arms.

The Boston man lowered Romano to the ring floor. He was hurried to hospital, but was dead on arrival.

LOVELOCK IN 5,000 METRES

London, June 26.—Jack Lovelock, a trifle uncertain of his ability to win the Olympic 1,500-meter race, is concentrating now on the 5,000 meters, his first love.

He would like to carry off the classic double as Paavo Nurmi did in the 1924 games, but if the shorter event escapes him he intends to have an ace in the hole at Berlin.

Running for the first time in competition since he relaxed his rigid hospital routine to train for the games, the New Zealander did a remarkable three miles in 14 minutes, 20 1-5 seconds recently to outstrip Britain's leading stars at the distance.

A wholesome respect for Stanley Wooderson, bespectacled little English miler, who beat him twice last year, might have influenced Lovelock to fall back on the distance at which he was unbeatable during his college days in New Zealand.

Their mile duel will be the highlight for the British Olympic team.

Another rivalry that has the British game officials excited is that between the veteran Godfrey Rampling and the new sensation, A. G. K. Brown, in the quarter-mile. After winning the 100 yards as he pleased in 9.9 seconds in the Kinnaird Trophy meet, Brown stepped out to beat Rampling by a yard in the quarter-mile in 48.3 seconds. Brown is also good at the half-mile.

GERMANY IS AFTER BOUT

Jacobs Offered $150,000 to Release Contract For Heavyweight Title Fight

Frankfurt-On-Main, Germany, June 26.—Walter Rothenburg, German sports promoter, today offered Mike Jacobs, the New York promoter, $150,000 for the contract for the proposed heavyweight boxing title bout between champion James J. Braddock and ex-champion Max Schmeling, knockout conqueror of Joe Louis.

Rothenburg, promoter of the Schmeling-Steve Hamas fight last year, said he intends to stage the title bout in Berlin in the Olympic Stadium after the international sports carnival August 1 to 16.

"Jacobs will do better business transferring the world heavyweight championship fight to Germany and accepting a flat sum as his share in the deal," declared Rothenburg.

Although officials and Rothenburg declined to admit it, German government officials generally were believed to be backing the plan to stage the bout. It was recalled Rothenburg was granted permission to deposit $25,000 in the United States for Hamas at a time when Germany's foreign exchange reserves were low.

New York, June 26.—Mike Jacobs today gave a cold shoulder to Walter Rothenburg's offer of $150,000 to buy the contract for the proposed Jim Braddock-Max Schmeling heavyweight boxing championship bout.

"It's a cinch the fight will be in the United States regardless of who promotes it," he said.

Hurler Knocks Out Three Men

"Ziggy" Kolynchynski, Young Polish Pitcher, Plays Leading Role in Novel Accident at St. Catharines

St. Catharines, Ont., June 26.—"Ziggy" Kolynchynski, young Polish pitcher for Chippawa, nearly ended the senior Niagara District Baseball League contest here Wednesday evening with two pitched balls that knocked out three players. St. Catharines finally won out in the last half of the ninth, 7 to 6.

Kolynchynski went to the mound for Chippawa in the eighth.

One pitch knocked out Johnny Oltean. On the next delivery to Mike Tasenchuk he hit the batter over the ear, laying him out. As Tasenchuk slumped at the plate, his bat flew out of his hand and hit Stuart, sitting on the bench, sending him to slumberland.

THE BIG SIX

Dolph Camilli, the Phillies' first baseman, climbed back into second place in the National League trio in baseball's Big Six hitters yesterday by slugging out four hits in nine times at bat to boost his average four points to .363. He replaced Baxter Jordan, of the Bees, who collected but one safety in nine trips to the plate, sinking to .354. In the American League, although Lou Gehrig got one hit in four times up, he still stood head and shoulders above the pack, since second-place Billy Sullivan, of the Indians, also lost ground by failing to hit.

The standings (three leading hitters in each league):

	G.	A.B.	R.	H.	Pct.
Gehrig, Yankees	64	254	81	102	.402
Sullivan, Indians	44	150	19	57	.380

STORIES IN STAMPS
By I. S. Klein

Admiral Sir George Somers, in 1609, led a fleet of eight caravels, conveying British colonists to the new plantation that was being started in Virginia. A hurricane blew up, the vessels were scattered and the Sea Venture, with Admiral Somers, was wrecked on a reef, one of about 360 little islands that make up what is now called Bermuda.

It was one of a series of wrecks which through adventuring sailors on these islands ever since they first were discovered by the Spaniard, Juan de Bermudez, in the fifteenth century. None claimed the islands, however, until Admiral Somers's arrival in 1609.

Somers died in 1610 and his followers named their haven the Somers Islands. But the name that has remained recalls the islands' original founder.

Many Bermuda stamps illustrate the Sea Venture, which brought the first British settlers so unexpectedly to these islands. One such stamp is shown here.

QUANTITIES FOR PICNIC LUNCHES

By MARY E. DAGUE

Rare June days are here again and picnic statistics are in order.

Here is a list of calculations that may help when the family decides to betake itself to the nearest picnic spot with a well-filled basket.

TABLE SERVINGS

One large cake ten inches in diameter will serve sixteen persons.

One loaf of sandwich bread will make twenty-four sandwiches which have been cut in half.

Two-thirds cup creamed butter will spread both sides of twenty-four sandwiches.

One pint of sandwich filling will fill twenty-four sandwiches.

One quart of salad will serve eight persons.

One four-pound chicken will yield about two cups of clear diced meat.

One two and a half pound lobster will yield, when boiled, enough meat for one quart of salad combined with other material.

One-half pound coffee and four quarts of boiling water will make enough of the beverage for sixteen people.

One and one-half dozen lemons will make enough lemonade to serve twenty to twenty-five persons, depending largely on the size and juiciness of the fruit.

One quart of a frozen mixture will serve six to eight persons. When ice cream means the main part of the refreshments, a larger serving is needed.

One pound of salted nuts will serve sixteen persons.

One pound of cold boiled ham or baked ham will serve six to eight persons, and one pound of meat loaf will provide for about the same number.

MAINTAIN PROPER BALANCE

It is quite as important that a picnic meal contain all the necessary food elements as for any other meal. Fruit and tomatoes are easy to carry and easy to serve. The carrying picnic foods must be considered, too, because usually one plate must answer for all courses. Fruit pies are hard to carry and juicy to serve. Many salads, too, resent rough handling, becoming wilted and watery if shaken about.

If you have plenty of room to carry several hampers, it is a good idea to put the salad together when ready to serve, keeping each ingredient in a container by itself. Meantime, this means crisp lettuce and a fresh, perfect dressing.

TOMORROW'S MENU

Breakfast — Strawberries, cereal, cream, ham omelet, cinnamon toast, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Asparagus souffle, romaine with Russian dressing, sliced bananas in apricot jelly, milk, tea.

Dinner—Casserole of salmon and potatoes, buttered spinach, jellied cucumber salad, pineapple upside down cake, milk, coffee.

C.P.R. EARNINGS

Montreal, June 26 (Canadian Press).—Earnings of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the week ending June 21 were $2,493,000, compared with $2,373,000 for the same week last year. Increase was $120,000.

Warm Work

The weather has been bright and warm for the U.S. Democratic National Convention at Philadelphia. Jimmy Hines, New York City district leader, had not lost his shirt. He was holding a telephone workout with his associates in New York when the above picture was taken.

Strictly Speaking

"A nice sort of welcome!" said the father, visiting his son at a boarding school. "I am hardly out of the train when you ask me for money."

"Well, dad, you must admit the train was twenty minutes late."

Robert Montgomery and Myrna Loy Play in "Petticoat Fever"

Against a background of icebound Labrador, Robert Montgomery and Myrna Loy are enacting one of the funniest comedies ever screened, in the new Metro-Goldwyn picture, "Petticoat Fever," now at the Dominion Theatre.

Adapted from the stage hit of the same name, the story concerns a wireless operator who is so lonely that he holds prisoner two fliers, a beautiful young girl and her male companion, whom he rescues from the Arctic night.

Reginald Owen heads the featured cast, as the blustery Englishman whose bride-to-be is snatched away from under his very nose. Others cast are Otto Yamaoka, as the Eskimo manservant; Forrester Harvey, Bo Ching and Iris Yamaoka.

"Petticoat Fever" is the first picture to bring together Montgomery and Miss Loy since their memorable vehicle, "When Ladies Meet." Each has gone far in personal popularity since that time and improved vastly in acting technique.

Also being shown, as the second feature, is "Florida Special," starring Sally Eilers and Jack Oakie.

Janet Gaynor To Play Here

Janet Gaynor and Robert Taylor form the striking new screen team coming tomorrow to the Capitol Theatre, in "Small Town Girl," M-G-M's picturization of the popular novel by Ben Ames Williams.

Produced for the screen by Hunt Stromberg, who has given the world "Ah Wilderness" and "Rose Marie" in recent months, the photoplay was directed by William Wellman, whose screen biography includes "Wings," "The Conqueror," "So-Big" and "Call of the Wild" among many other hits.

The notable cast includes Binnie Barnes, Lewis Stone, Andy Devine, Elizabeth Patterson, Frank Craven, James Stewart and a score of others.

"Rainy Afternoon" Coming Here Monday

Film fans will meet a glamorous new personality when Pickford-Lasky's "One Rainy Afternoon" comes to the Atlas Theatre Monday with Francis Lederer and a great cast.

She is the lovely Countess Liev de Maigret, noted Continental socialite, who was "discovered" by Maurice Chevalier.

Born in Norway, she was educated at the University of Oslo and fashionable schools in Paris and London.

After the death of her husband, Count Francois de Maigret, the Countess turned to charity theatricals, and it was at one of these that she so deeply impressed Chevalier that he introduced her to Hollywood talent scouts who brought her to the film capital.

PIERROTS TO BE FEATURED

Typical entertainment, without which no English seaside is complete, pierrots and pierrettes, will be introduced at the Show Boat tonight when T. H. Eslick presents Gladys Mavius and her troupe of Show Boat pierrots. Brightly costumed and with a lively programme of music, patter and dance the company appears from rehearsals, to be likely to prove one of the Show Boat's most popular attractions.

As with all Show Boat attractions suitable scenery provides a background to the entertainment. With the promise of a fine summer evening a large crowd is expected for the debut of this new feature.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Snow-covered fastnesses of the High Sierras form the vivid pictorial background for "The Oregon Trail," latest of the Republic historical westerns featuring John Wayne. The production comes to the Columbia Theatre today.

The entire cast and technical crew, which numbered more than 500 persons, 200 horses, a herd of 200 cattle and eighteen covered wagons were transported for more than 300 miles across the Salt Lakes of Death Valley and into the snowclad mountains in order to make the colorful and moving scenes of which this production is distinguished.

Also being shown is Evalyn Knapp in "Ladies Crave Excitement."

ATLAS THEATRE

One of the unusual customs in Bali, the South Sea Island paradise where Paramount's current release "Legong" was filmed, is the matter of proposals of marriage by the women.

In this tropical Eden, the woman picks out her man, and indicates that she wants to marry him. If he agrees, he is invited to her home to dine and drink wine with her parents. But if he should refuse to join her in wedlock, it brings disgrace to the woman. It is such a refusal on which the story of "Legong" is based. This picture is now at the Atlas Theatre.

Stocks Follow An Irregular Range On Wall St. List

Associated Press

New York, June 26.—A late rally in the rails shook the stock market out of its lethargy for a few moments today.

Buyers quickly changed their minds, however, and the list backed up to the irregular range it had followed throughout the greater part of the session. Transfers were around 900,000 shares.

The carrier flurry followed action of the U.S. district court of the District of Columbia in declaring invalid the Railway Retirement Act of 1935.

In the brief upturn the transportation shares pushed ahead fractions to about 2 points. The hurry to take profits was coincident with the belated thought that the disputed law has yet to be decided by the Supreme Court.

Other news failed to furnish stimulation for the majority of stocks. Chrysler and a few specialties gave a good account of themselves, but there were a number of prominent soft spots.

Steady to a point or so firmer were Allied Chemical, American Can, Commercial Investment Trust, Commercial Credit, Motor Products, Spicer Manufacturing, Greyhounds Corporation, Sperry, Texas Corporation, Anaconda, Dome, Montgomery Ward, Fajardo Sugar, American Sugar Refining, American Crystal Sugar, Sears Roebuck, Westinghouse, N.Y. Central, Santa Fe, Delaware & Hudson, Southern Railway, Great Northern, General Motors and U.S. Rubber.

On the other hand, American Telephone dropped 2, and U.S. Steel was off a point most of the day. About unchanged to a bit lower also were National Steel, U.S. Smelting, Schenley, Consolidated Edison, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Midland Steel Products, General Motors, J. I. Case and Commonwealth& Southern.

Wheat Prices Drop As Rain Reported In Grain Districts

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, June 26.—Rains in the drought-stricken United States northwest led to price breaks in wheat on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Values closed 2¼ to 2 cents lower, July at 81½, October 81⅞ to 82 and December 82⅜ cents.

Heavy selling followed reports of precipitation in parts of the arid American spring-wheat territory, and in southern areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta.

With export sales of Canadian wheat at a minimum, late session price rallies were feeble.

Minneapolis price tumbled 3 cents a bushel at one time, and Chicago more than 1 cent. Liverpool closed ⅛d to ½d lower. Demand for low-grade what continued brisk in the cash-grains market, spreads improving sharply. Coarse grain prices eased.

Chicago, June 26. — Despite assertions that no amount of rain would revive wheat in many sections of the Dakotas, wheat values plunged 2¼c lower here late today.

Minneapolis wheat quotations gave way 3¼c in some cases. The all-important factor was apparent likelihood of a definite breakup of drought northwest.

Wheat closed shaky, 1⅝ to 2¼c under yesterday's finish, July 93½ to 93⅝, September 94¼ to 94⅜, corn unchanged to 1c lower, September 64½ to 64⅝, oats ¼c to ½ down, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 5c.

INDUSTRIALS OFF SLIGHTLY

Canadian Press

Toronto, June 26.—In slow trade the industrial section of Toronto exchange registered a minor decline today.

Nickel slipped back ¼ or more. International Petroleum, Distillers-Seagrams and a majority of the utility and steel shares ruled lower. Canadian Car and Foundry stocks were off ⅜ to ¾ and fraction losses went to Steel of Canada common, Page Hersey and United Steel. Brazilian Traction, Consolidated Smelters and C.P.R. were steady to slightly stronger and Ford A held steady.

Walkers common gained about ⅜. Distillers-Seagrams lost a point to 21 and Industrial Alcohol A dropped an early gain.

SHARP DROP IN POLISH BONDS

Associated Press

New York, June 26.—Announcement that Poland would meet bond interest in blocked zloyts brought sharp declines in Polish obligations in the bond market today. Poland 8s pitched down more than 16 under moderately heavy offerings, while Warsaw 7s yielded about 11.

Activity in United States governments contracted sharply as modest up turns were scored by treasury 4¼s, the 3¼s of 1949 and the 2

Tarzan And the Fire Gods

Seeking to provide an opportunity for Lady Beth Barclay's escape, Jerry fought with a vigor that compensated in part for his inexperience in combat. But the English girl had decided she would not flee. She would fight at the side of the gallant American.

She darted toward the revolver that lay on the ground, but a South Canaanite soldier was there before her. Fortunately the warrior did not know its use as an instrument of death, and he was content to thrust it in his belt for further examination at his leisure.

Then another lancer seized her from behind while her companion continued his brave, but losing, fight. Inevitably he was overcome. The battle was over. Lady Beth and Jerry were prisoners. "She is mine," Ekbal cried gleefully. "I found her. She is mine!" . . .

. . . Tarzan heard Jerry's shot and believed the American was hunting in the forest; so the ape-man continued his calm survey of the strange crater. Thus the only man who might have saved Jerry and Lady Beth was wholly unaware of their fateful predicament!

Straying Husbands Find False Excuses

Says Wives Are Not Always To Blame

THERE IS NO OTHER ONE THING in the world over which so many tears are shed, over which so many women's hearts break as the unfaithfulness of husbands. It is a tragedy worse than death, for there is no wife who would not rather give her husband to the grave than to another woman. Death, at least, leaves a clean sorrow and permits the bereaved widow to openly mourn the husband she has lost and be comforted by the respect and sympathy of all who know her, while the deserted wife must suffer in silence the loss of her husband and endure the humiliation of feeling that she is discredited as a woman who had not charm enough to hold her man.

When a married man roams away from his own fireside it is the custom to blame his wife for it, or at least to think that she has been guilty of contributory negligence, or else she would not have lost him. At any rate, the alibi he always offers for his sidestepping is the good old Adamite excuse: "The woman thou gavest me, she did it." Every philanderer, according to his tale, is married to a human frigidaire, has a wife who doesn't understand him, or gives him no sympathy and thus forces him to seek consolation from flappers, gold-diggers and such like.

Human nature, being what it is, and wives being no more perfect than husbands, undoubtedly there are women who slack down and become so slovenly and repulsive-looking after marriage that no one could blame their husbands for seeking out ladies who are easier on the eyes. And there are wives who are such poor cooks and housekeepers that their husbands are justified in leaving them for the preservation of their lives. And there are women who are such naggers and petty tyrants that no man who wasn't a combination saint and martyr could stand one of them without a little relief on the side.

But, curiously enough, the wife's conduct seems, in reality, to have little to do with whether her husband philanders or not. For on every hand we see poor wives who have faithful husbands, and women who are ideal wives, who possess every charm and virtue, and whose husbands chase every petticoat that crosses their paths. We even see husbands who really love their wives and admire them above all other women who yet torture them with their infidelities.

So it seems that whether husbands are true to their marriage vows or not depends far more upon their own temperaments and characters than it does upon what their wives do; that it is in vain for a woman to make a burnt offering of herself on the kitchen stove and put perfume behind her ears if she is married to a man who, as Roark Bradford's Big Henry used to say, "has an itching heel and a wandering around in his weary mind."

But why, then, do men philander? Why isn't a man who has a fine wife and a nice home satisfied to stay put? The explanation in the case of many men is that they are just naturally restless and discontented. They are always changing their occupations, swapping their automobiles, trying something new, and no woman in the world could hold them.

Vanity leads many other married men into philandering. They fancy themselves Don Juans whom no woman can resist and they are bound to try out their fatal fascinations on every female they meet. These are the male flirts who greet the woman they meet for the first time at a cocktail party by asking where she has been all of their lives and demanding to know why they have never met, and by the third drink try to date her.

Other men philander because they get the same kick out of the love chase that some men get out of hunting or fishing. A woman is desirable to them only as long as she is unattainable. Once they have caught her, she is a dead duck so far as they are concerned, for their interest is only in the bird on the wing. They tire of their lady loves just as they did of their wives and are no more faithful as lovers than they were as husbands.

A lot of men, especially middle-aged and elderly men who have made money, are not philanders by nature but have philandering thrust upon them, so to speak, by women who are gold-diggers. Young and pretty girls make love to them, use every art of sex appeal upon them, flatter and cajole them until they get Grandpa trying to do fancy steps along the primrose road, despite his rheumatism and his faithful old wife at home.

And the final explanation of the philanderer who breaks his wife's heart with his roaming is because, as Mr. Howells once said, after centuries of civilization man is still imperfectly monogamous.

Uncle Wiggily and the Blue Jay

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Johnnie and Billie Bushytail, the squirrel boys, were talking very softly outside their home one day. The reason they were talking softly was that Mrs. Bushytail had a headache, and was lying down.

"I hope mother's headache goes away soon," Billie whispered.

"It will if we don't make any noise," Johnnie said. "It's nice and quiet, and if it stays this way mother will be well in no time. I wonder if we ought to go over to Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow? Maybe he'd like visitors."

"I always like visitors!" a voice exclaimed, and there was Uncle Wiggily. "But this time—"

"Sh-h-h-h!" Billie whispered. "Not so loud!"

"What's the matter?" Mr. Longears asked anxiously.

"Mother has a headache," Johnnie told him. "And we're being very quiet, so it will go away."

"Well, I'm very sorry about that," Uncle Wiggily said, in a low tone. "Can I do anything that will help?"

"No, it will get well itself if no one makes any noise," said Billie. "It always does. I wish—"

BLUE JAY SCREAMS

But just then a Blue Jay flew over, screaming as loud as he could.

"Oh, my goodness!" Johnnie gasped. "He'll wake up mother! I hope he doesn't come back!"

He did come back, though, screaming again. Uncle Wiggily hopped along after him, and when he was a short distance away, so that Mrs. Bushytail wouldn't hear him, he shouted: "Mr. Blue Jay! Oh, Mr. Blue Jay!"

"What is it, Uncle Wiggily?" the Blue Jay asked, coming to rest on a tree branch near the rabbit gentleman.

"Would you mind not screaming so loudly around here?" Uncle Wiggily asked politely.

"Not scream? Why, we Blue Jays always scream!" was the reply. "Just as children shout when they're playing. We like it. But why don't you like me to scream?"

"Because Mrs. Bushytail has a headache, and is lying down, and if you scream you'll disturb her," Mr. Longears told him.

"Well, in that case, I'll certainly not scream, no matter how much I want to," the Blue Jay promised. "And not only that, but I'll fly in a circle and keep all the other Jays from screaming! You see, we're having a sort of parade past here. It's in honor of my brother. Today is his birthday. And pretty soon there will be a lot of Jays, all screaming 'Happy Birthday to you!'"

"Will you stop them?" Uncle Wiggily asked anxiously. "I don't want to spoil your fun, but a headache isn't a nice thing to have, you know."

"Certainly I'll stop them!" the Blue Jay said. "It will be just as quiet as anything. And you tell Mrs. Bushytail for me, when she wakes up, that I hope she feels a lot better!"

"Thank you!" Uncle Wiggily exclaimed gratefully. "You're a kind Blue Jay, and if ever I can do anything for you, let me know. Thank you!"

The Blue Jay laughed happily, because he was going to do a good deed, and flew off. He started to circle, and when the first of the Blue Jays appeared he told them not to scream. They didn't either but they flew very low, and the sound of their wings was soft and soothing. Not one of them screamed a note!

And when Mrs. Bushytail awoke, she said to Uncle Wiggily, who had stayed to see how she was: "Oh, Uncle Wiggily, my headache is all gone; and I had the loveliest dream, all about soft feathers and the wind blowing, very gently! It blew my headache all away!"

Then Uncle Wiggily told her about the kind Jays, and how her dream was the gentle fluttering of their wings. And maybe tonight you'll dream of the same thing—do you think you will?

So tomorrow, if the leaves on the trees whisper a lullaby to the young birds in their nests, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily and the tomato.

HOROSCOPE

"The stars incline, but do not compel"

SATURDAY, JUNE 27, 1936

According to astrology this is one of the rarely fortunate days that uplift the spirit and strengthen the body. It is primarily most favorable to financial matters. Bankers should benefit.

Many requests for loans will be received, as the summer advances, from foreign sources. American financiers are to have many new problems.

This is an auspicious day for signing any sort of contract or legal paper. The stars indicate many new business projects that promise large returns to those who risk their money, but purely speculative enterprises will be unfortunate.

This is a lucky day for starting ocean voyages. Steamship companies should profit greatly, for Europe and Asia will attract summer tourists.

The evening of this day is most promising to leaders of business or government affairs. Entertainments in their honor should be exceedingly successful.

Women should enjoy the daylight hours, which are favorable to informal hospitalities. Increased interest in home-making and gardening is prophesied—domestic calm before national storms.

International agreements are to benefit Uncle Sam and strengthen his friendship with John Bull. Labor difficulties for both Britain and the United States will increase in the autumn.

Girls are well directed under this rule of the stars, which seems to foster beauty and common sense. Discarding of artifices is forecast.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of fair prosperity. Increase of popularity is indicated for women. Financial matters should be satisfactory.

Children born on this day probably will be gifted and well-balanced. Many subjects of this sign are intellectual and succeed as writers.

Helen Adams Keller, blind and deaf author and lecturer, was born on this day, 1880. Others who have celebrated it as a birthday include Louis Chase, author, 1873; Paul Laurence Dunbar, Negro poet, 1872, and Charles Stewart Parnell, Irish statesman, 1846.

Barrel Trip Is Planned

Veteran to Use His Bonus to Cross the Atlantic Ocean in Strange Craft

Buffalo, N.Y., June 26.—Ernest Biegazski says he is going to use his veterans' bonus sailing across the Atlantic Ocean in a barrel.

Ernest was not considered seriously until a Buffalo cooperage company confirmed his story by admitting the barrel was being built. It will cost around $1,000 and be ready in about ten days.

Ernest plans to "sail" from the Battery in New York late in July for "any part in Europe."

The cooperage company built the barrel used by the last man to go over Niagara Falls, George Stathakis of Buffalo. He suffocated before his friends could reach the barrel in the whirlpool but the cask was not even dented in the plunge.

The Atlantic barrel will be nine feet by six feet eight inches with a keel to keep it upright. When the seas are rough, a hollow mast will provide ventilation.

CENTENARY OF RAILROADING

Canadian National's New Streamlined Locomotive May Be Used For Event

Montreal, June 26.—Forerunner of a new era in Canadian railroading, the giant streamlined "6,400" type locomotive of the Canadian National Railways will likely draw the special train that will travel from Montreal to Saint John on Saturday, July 18, to commemorate Canada's Railway centennial.

Possibility of using the scarlet, gold and olive colored streamliner was mentioned by S. J. Hungerford, president of the Canadian National Railways, in a letter to John Love, chairman of the Canadian Railway Centennial committee. The new giant of the rails, now undergoing running tests prior to being placed in regular service, is longer than the entire train the locomotive "Dorchester" pulled on its historic journey in July, 1836, from La Prairie to Saint John.

The first railway in Canada, the Champlain and St. Lawrence Railroad, was founded by a group of Canadian business men who remained in control of the railroad until 1863, when the charter rights were acquired by the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, one of the components of the present Canadian National Railways. The one hundredth anniversary of the beginning of Canadian railroad history will be celebrated principally in Saint John. A varied programme to mark the event has been drawn up, including the dedication of a site for a monument to mark the centennial.

Canadians to Discuss Ships

London, June 26. — Earle Page, Deputy Prime Minister of Australia, at present in London, will postpone his departure and remain in England for a week or so after the arrival from Canada of Hon. Charles Dunning, Minister of Finance, and Hon. W. D. Euler, Minister of Trade and Commerce, in the hope an agreement may be reached on the problem of Pacific Shipping. Mr. Page made known this plan today.

(The two steamship companies operating services between the west coast of Canada and the Antipodes, the Canadian-Australasian Line and the Union Steamship Company of New Zealand, have suffered heavy losses of traffic on account of competition from United States subsidized shipping.)

ALASKA AIR BASE PLAN

Gigantic Station in North Would Be Operated By Force of 20,000 Men

Seattle, June 26. — The Post-Intelligencer says Rep. Byron B. Harlan, Democrat, of Dayton, Ohio, disclosed yesterday the United States government plans to establish another Alaskan colony to create a gigantic naval air base to be operated by a permanent force of 20,000 men.

The newspaper quotes Harlan as saying he carried complete plans for the colonization project as he sailed yesterday aboard the U.S. Fisheries vessel Brant for Alaska.

Col. Charles Marsh, chairman of the federal trade commission, accompanied Harlan.

"The second colony will be undertaken as soon as the success of the Matanuska colony is assured," Harlan was quoted.

"The Alaska base will be greater than that at Hawaii. Hawaii will be difficult to defend in case of war because it relies on the mainland for its supplies."

It was not indicated how soon the base would be established. Harlan was quoted, but in addition to airplanes and war vessels, a large army post would be established.

British Film Unit Lands at Quebec

Canadian Press

Quebec, June 26.—The British film unit that will produce "The Great Barrier," motion picture epic of railroad construction in the Canadian Rockies, arrived here yesterday evening en route to British Columbia. They came ashore from the Ss. Empress of Britain.

Milton Rosmer, director, headed the party. Male and feminine leads will be played by Richard Arlen and Antoinette Cellier. Arlen was in the party and Miss Cellier will arrive shortly.

The actor said he regretted he would be unable to visit Toronto where he said he spent many happy months during the Great War, training with the Royal Canadian Air Force. "But I'm glad," he said "that I shall see Winnipeg, the city where I enlisted in His Majesty's forces."

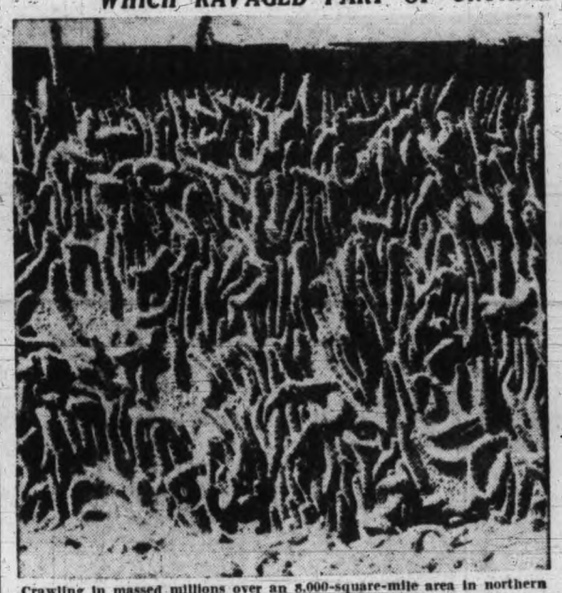
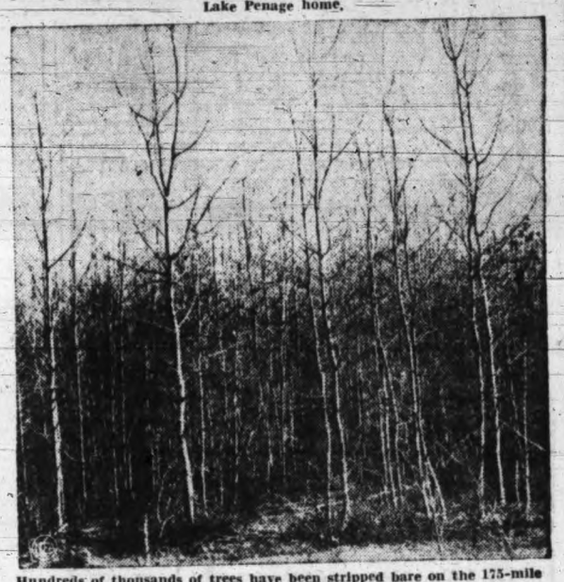
CATERPILLARS' "HUNGER MARCH" WHICH RAVAGED PART OF ONTARIO



Crawling in massed millions over an 8,000-square-mile area in northern Ontario, tent caterpillars stripped forests of foliage, halting trains, and perilling crops. Here is a remarkable picture of pests on the side of a Lake Penage home.



Hundreds of thousands of trees have been stripped bare on the 175-mile front where Ontarians battled desperately to stay the ravenous hordes, which even rivers fail to halt. This strip of forest shows the devastation in the "army's" wake.

The squirming scourge invaded schools, stores, and homes in its relentless advance. Teachers allotted regular period to clear the pests from walls, but they swarmed back again. Here a rural pupil is seen sweeping down hundreds.

LOGGER DIES OF INJURIES

John Ochman, an employee of the Alberni Pacific Logging Company's Camp No. 4, died this morning as the result of injuries sustained in an accident at the camp yesterday.

He died on the operating table of the Alberni Hospital.

According to a provincial police report, Ochman was struck by a falling snag while working at the camp, located on the Alberni Canal.

An inquest will probably be held at a date to be set by the coroner, who is at present attending the Canadian Medical Association convention here.

Washington, June 26 (Associated Press).—Dr. John Cummings, sixty-eight, chief of research and statistics of the United States office of education, died today of heart disease.

Swarming up a poplar tree to gorge themselves on green leaves, the caterpillars here are shown near Chelmsford, Ont.
